CALLES WILL RULE TWO YEARS MORE

"SAVE AMUNDSEN" IS ORDER FROM MOSCOW

Soviet Official Spurs Search For Missing Explorer; Sweden Orders Airmen To Abandon Search.

MOSCOW, July 19. — "The Amundsen party must be saved!"

This order was wirelessed today to the Russian ice breakers Kranssin and Maligin by Serge Kameneff, assistant commissar for war, who is assisting the Nobile relief work on behalf of the Soviet government.

The whereabouts of the lost Amundsen party is not known, but the order was intended to spur the commanders of the two rescue ships to use the utmost endeavors to locate and save the missing men if they were alive and adrift on ice floes any place within the area possible for the steamers to reach.

"This world renowned scientist (Capt. Raold Amundsen) cannot be abandoned to the elements until every possibility of rescue has been exhausted," said Kameneff.

Chief hopes for possible rescue of the Amundsen group of six men —if they are still alive—is pinned upon the Maligin, sister ice breaker of the Krassin. The latter steamship is temporarily out of this race of mercy owing to the necessity to refuel.

A radiogram from the Maligin said the district southeast of Spitzbergen was being explored, but that the ship was encountering bad weather.

LONDON, July 19.—Swedish airmen who have been searching for Nobile expedition survivors in the Arctic have been ordered by the Swedish government to abandon their rescue work and return home, according to a Central News dispatch from Stockholm this afternoon.

TILDEN DROPPED FROM DAVIS TEAM

Declare Articles For Papers Wreck Amateur Rights

PARIS, July 19.—William T. Tilden, 2nd, foremost figure in the world of lawn tennis during the modern generation, has been summarily dropped from the rolls of the American Davis Cup team.

Faced with charges, preferred by the amateur rules committee and the Davis Cup committee, Tilden was notified today that he had been removed overnight from the captaincy and virtually booted off the team on the eve of the inter-zone finals with Italy and so sudden was the action taken that it apparently came as a complete surprise not only to Tilden but also to Samuel H. Collom, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, and Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the Davis Cup committee.

Collom issued a formal statement in which he outlined the charges as emanating from articles Tilden wrote for the London Evening Standard during the Wimbledon championships. The article or articles were alleged to have dealt with the contemporaneous play, thus violating the provisions of the player-writer rule. Collom's statement added that the United States could not use a player in Davis Cup competition against whom "such charges were pending."

Wear, plainly discomfited by the turn of events, informed International News Service that he was cabling his resignation as chairman of the Davis Cup committee.

President Collom issued the following statement to the press:

"The amateur rules committee and the Davis Cup committee having preferred charges against William Tilden, II, for having violated amateur rules by writing current newspaper articles for pay or consideration covering the Wimbledon tournament, in which he was a competitor; and, whereas, it would be improper to retain as a member of the United States Davis Cup team any player against whom any such charges are pending, the United States Davis Cup committee withdraws Tilden from the competition."

Tilden issued the following detailed statement:

"I deny that the articles written for the London Evening Standard were a contemporaneous report of the tournament in which I was a competitor. I consider this a deliberate misinterpretation of my articles and an attempt to embarrass President Samuel H. Collom, of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, and Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the United States Davis Cup committee. Two of three of the disputed articles were published prior to the departure from the United States of Collom and Wear. One was fully discussed at a committee meeting at which Collom and Wear were present. No objection was raised by any person present.

"It seems very strange that the same article was so much worse after Wear and Collom were two days at sea. Once more the gentlemen in the United States are interpreting my motives and once more incorrectly I deeply regret the embarrassment to Collom and Wear as well as to the team, but I am glad to say that all feel there was no intention on my part to evade or violate the rules."

PRESENT AT SHOOTING OF OBREGON

MIDDLETOWN NEWSPAPERS CONSOLIDATE

Merger Of Journal And News-Signal Is Effected

Merger of The Middletown Journal and The Middletown News-Signal, both evening newspapers, was announced Thursday in Middletown.

By terms of the merger, The Middletown Publishing Co., publishers of The Middletown Journal, acquires the plant and property of The Middletown News-Signal, rival daily, and a new company, known as The News-Journal Publishing Company, has been formed to publish both papers.

J. A. Chew, Xenia, publisher of The Xenia Gazette, who has been president of The Middletown Publishing Co., is president of the new company. E. S. Myers, former editor of The Xenia Gazette, who has been publisher of The Middletown Journal since that paper was acquired by Xenia interests three years ago, will be publisher of both Middletown papers under the merger and is secretary and treasurer of the new company.

Both newspapers are now housed in their own modern plants, and each will be published from its own building in the future. The Sunday Journal will be a combination of the two week day issues and will be known as the Sunday News-Journal.

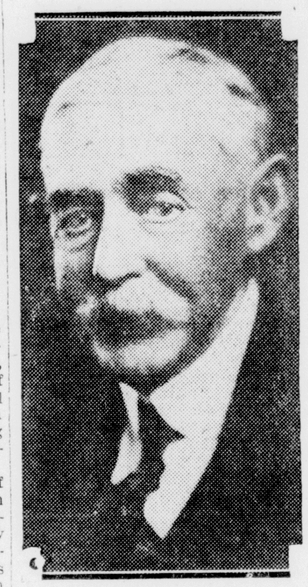

The consolidation of newspaper interests at Middletown, a city of 35,000 population, is in line with a general trend in the present day publishing business. Publishers, convinced that a greater service to the public can be effected through newspaper mergers, have entered into consolidation all over the country.

The Middletown merger is the second important Ohio newspaper consolidation in the last sixty days, the Springfield Sun having been taken over by former Governor James M. Cox of The Springfield News, within the last few weeks. Springfield is a city of 70,000.

Both Middletown newspapers have long and honorable histories back of them and the publishers have announced that in continuing their individual identities, policies on which the separate reputations have been built, will not be disturbed.

The News-Signal has been published by J. Q. Baker for more than forty years and it is this paper which gave the early newspaper training to former Governor James M. Cox, through whom the deal for the merger was effected. Mr. Baker is a brother-in-law of Mr. Cox.

OBREGONISTS HOPE TO KEEP PRESIDENT IN PRESENT OFFICE

Religious Fanaticism Is Blamed For Death Of General

MEXICO CITY, July 19. — Determined that the policies of the late President-Elect General Alvaro Obregon shall govern Mexico under the powerful guidance of President Calles, the Obregonist faction of the Mexican congress will meet today for the purpose of drawing up a resolution which, they claim, will legally permit Calles to remain in office for two years more.

The Obregonists intend to use the constitutional amendment, which was passed last year for the purpose of providing General Obregon with a six year tenure in office, as their legal vehicle for keeping Calles at the reins of the government.

They point out that the amendment as it now stands fails to make any mention of when it shall go into effect. They intend to rush through congress a transitory article to the amendment which will insert the date "November 30th, 1928."

As President Calles' term of office does not end until December 1, they say the amendment will thus apply to his present term and he will be able to continue as chief executive for two more years.

The Obregonists further intend to urge Calles to agree to stay on with the argument that his continuance would be viewed favorably by the United States.

They point out that the friendship of the United States was so valuable to Mexico that it should always be considered, even in internal affairs of Mexico. They stressed the point that Calles and Dwight Morrow, the American ambassador are closely allied by bonds of friendship and readily understand each other's point of view.

Meanwhile, the situation here continues patiently quiet, but there is a strong undercurrent of uneasiness. However, no outbreaks have been reported. Government troops continue to guard important points but there are indications that everything will be back to normal before long.

Eighteen suspects are under arrest. One of these, a woman, recognized the slayer of Obregon when brought to jail and revealed that his real name was Jose De Leon. None of those arrested is of any importance politically.

General Obregon's body is being borne back to his home state of Sonora aboard a special train. More than 100,000 persons lined the streets between the national palace and the railroad station to view the solemn funeral cortege.

MEXICO CITY, July 19.—A maddened fanatic inspired by religious fervor caused the death of President-Elect General Alvaro Obregon, according to President Plutarco Elias Calles.

In a signed statement, the president said the slayer had admitted that religious fervor was his only motive. The president added that authorities entrusted with the investigation of the case have secured much data "directly complicating clerical action."

The president continued his statement by exhorting the people of Mexico to stand behind the constitution and the principles of the social revolution.

MINE UNION ALLOWS DISTRICTS TO MAKE WAGE NEGOTIATIONS

Policy Committee Moves To Settle Coal Strike

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 19—The policy committee of United Mine Workers of America was on record today as authorizing officers of various districts of the miners national union to enter into wage negotiations with their respective operators with the view of settling the two-year-old bituminous coal strike upon any basis mutually satisfactory.

In a formal statement, climaxing a week of conferences here, John L. Lewis, international president of the miners' union, explained that the union was amending its policy for the purpose of coping with the depressed conditions in the bituminous coal industry.

The decision of the policy committee was a victory for Illinois miners who demanded they be released from the 1924 Jacksonville wage scale which the union has considered its front-line entrenchment.

The policy committee adopted the following resolutions:

1.—Resolved officers of respective districts comprising central competitive field and outlying bituminous districts be authorized to enter wage negotiations with their respective operators upon basis mutually satisfactory.

2.—That district representatives and officers of the international union shall co-operate in execution of this policy.

3.—That all district organizations be authorized to permit any coal company or any mine to employ all men it may require for maintenance, repairs, devolpment, construction or production of coal providing however, that such company agrees with district to pay existing wage schedules and carry out existing agreement temporarily until a district agreement is negotiated.

4.—That any agreement negotiated under this policy shall be submitted for ratification to district convention or referendum vote of respective district.

MARTIAL LAW FOLLOWS RIOT

HAVANA, July 19.—A state of virtual martial law prevails today at Santiago de Cuba following a fight between police and soldiers in which one policeman was killed and many were wounded on both sides.

The trouble began apparently when soldiers began jeering a police sergeant. In the fighting that followed missiles of all finds were used. Of the wounded soldiers and policemen one policeman is in serious condition and may die.

Mayor Arnaz ordered the commander of the military district to take charge of the city. All the policemen were ordered into the central station where they were put under military guard.

TEACHER DROWNS

TOLEDO, O., July 19.—The body of Howard R. Ham, 30, former Wauseon school teacher, had been recovered from the Maumee River here today. He drowned late yesterday while trying to recover a drifting rowboat, near shore. His body was recovered several hours later by police.

FAILS TO ENDORSE

COLUMBUS, O., July 19—Through action of a "secret committee of twenty-four," known as the non-partisan political advisory committee of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, that organization was on record today regarding its stand on the "three leading gubernatorial candidates for the Republican nomination."

The committee, of which Rev. E. J. Moore, superintendent of the league is a member, it was said refused to adopt a resolution endorsing Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, to the exclusion of Attorney General Turner, and Congressman James Begg.

According to officers of the league the "sub-rosa" committee was appointed last January at the annual meeting of the trustees, and all members and the trustees pledged to strict secrecy regarding the committee's membership.

SMITH WILL DEFEND DRY LAW POSITION; IS MISUNDERSTOOD

Governor Says He's Not In Favor Of Saloon

ALBANY, N. Y., July 19.—In his speech formally accepting the Democratic presidential nomination, Governor Al Smith will stress his stand on prohibition, emphasizing that he never has urged repeal of the eighteenth amendment but that he feels a proper modification on the Volstead law would do away with bootlegging and its attendant evils, according to his close friends.

The governor is said to feel that despite all he has said in the past, his views on prohibition are largely misunderstood by voters of the country because of statements issued from time to time in the past by his political enemies and various reform organizations.

There is one thing more than any other which arouses Governor Smith and that is to be represented as a friend of the saloon. Time without number, his advisers point out, the governor has declared in public speeches and statements that he is absolutely opposed to the return of the old-time saloon.

Only once since his nomination has the governor given away to his feelings and that was when he was pictured by William Allen White, Kansas editor, as a friend of the saloon. The governor has made up his mind, however, that he will not be drawn into an argument with anyone over prohibition until after he has stated his position on this subject in his notification speech.

WOMAN KILLED IN COLLISION

DAYTON, O., July 19.—One woman was instantly killed and six other persons were injured when a truck and an automobile collided head-on on the Dayton-Cincinnati Road near here early this morning.

Mrs. Clarence Weidler, 27, Rural Route 2, Franklin, was killed when the machine in which she was riding crashed head on into a truck of the Cincinnati Enquirer said to have been driven by Leonard Pettrl, 31, of Cincinnati. Four others in her party were injured and are in Miami Valley Hospital here.

Elmer Sterling, 13 years, Park St., Columbus, who was riding with Pettri was cut and bruised and is being held at Miami Valley Hospital. The boy was said to have been hitch-hiking from Hamilton to his home at Columbus.

According to the story told police, Pettri had stopped his truck when the machine crashed into him. Pettri was headed northward and the automobile was driving south, it was said.

FOUR MINERS HURT IN UNION ATTACK

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., July 19.—Four non-union miners injured, three seriously, and four damage suits against Belmont County today was the result of Eastern Ohio's latest mine disturbance.

George White, Clavin White and C. J. Burley were hurt seriously and Paul Kinter was bruised when a mob of union sympathizers attacked the men as they drove by the Blaine mine near here, enroute to work at the Glen Robbin mine in Jefferson County, where all are employed.

Immediately following the attack attorneys for the men filed damage suits against the Belmont County commissioners totaling $5,000.

According to Kinter's report to authorities the mob consisted of about seventy-five men and women. No arrests were reported by the sheriff's office here.

The car which the men were driving was wrecked and dismantled.

HOME TRUSTEES ASK CREATION OF NEW EDUCATIONAL POSITION

A proposal to create a new office of superintendent and director of education at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans Home, was presented to the state board of control by trustees of the Home in Columbus Wednesday.

The trustees, in their request, named a salary of $2,000 a year to be paid out of the appropriation granted the Home by the last legislature and recommended the appointment to the position of Prof. Christian E. Burckel of the Collinwood, Cleveland, high school. Prof. Burckel has been acting in that capacity for a short time, the trustees said.

They also asked that Prof. W. S. Sackett, former superintendent of the Home schools, be appointed principal of the high school. The trustees who presented the proposal to the board of control are W. T. Amos of Sidney and Ralph H. Carroll of Cleveland. Among those who appeared in support of the proposition was Judge Edward Matthias of the Ohio Supreme Court, former commander of the United Spanish American War Veterans. The control board deferred action and asked for further information on the project.

Prof. Burckel came to the Home a month ago to assume the office of director of education, recreation, trades and discipline. Mrs. Burckel at the same time took over the position of welfare director and dean of women at the Home. Mr. Burckel announced a new system of education at the Home, by which the trades would be co-related with the high school courses and credits toward the high school degree would be given in the trade work. Four high school courses are to be offered under the new system he said at the time he came here: college preparatory, farming, trades and commercial.

ATLANTA CONVICTS FOILED IN DARING ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

ATLANTA, July 19.—Roy Gardner, notorious California mail robber, and Joe Urbaytis, of Toledo, Ohio, were in solitary confinement in federal prison today while a searching investigation was under way into their attempted escape late yesterday.

Both prisoners attempted to shoot their way out. Warden John W. Snook, declaring his belief that guns were smuggled into the prison in yarn shipments for use in the prison mills, closely questioned a dozen guards.

John W. Bunts, guard struck in the face by an iron bar as the prisoners made their dash was recovering. After covering two guards with guns the prisoners attempted to place a ladder at the stockade walls but were balked by Guard Hays on the wall.

Shots were exchanged and the prisoners, using Capt. Parker as cover, went back into the prison to take his keys from him. Parker, however, dashed at them. In the fighting Bunts was struck. Other guards rushed up and held the prisoners at bay with guns.

SOUDERS IMPROVES

DETROIT, July 19.—The condition of George Souders, automobile race driver, seriously injured Sunday, was slightly improved today. He has regained consciousness.

REPUBLICANS EXPECT TO SPEND $3,000,000 DURING CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, July 20—A Republican campaign budget of $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 was forecast today as National Chairman Hubert Work prepared to receive J. R. Nutt, of Cleveland, treasurer, to fix the campaign's fiscal policy.

Chairman Work has indicated that no effort will be made to limit contributions so that requests for large sums from party multi-millionaires may be avoided.

Although Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee, is speeding toward the Pacific coast, his ideas are expected to be made known to the new national treasurer by Work.

Hoover, who insists upon systematic planning, even in his own household, believes that every expenditure of consequence should be carefully budgeted and a record kept of every outlay down to the last penny. Efficiency in spending is expected to be the Hoover policy of keeping down campaign costs.

Another important caller of Work was to be Mrs. Alvin T. Hurt, of Kentucky, vice chairman of the national committee. She arrived here to plan for a conference on July 24 of committeewomen from the eastern states.

THIRTEEN DIE FROM HEAT IN MANHATTAN

NEW YORK, July 19.—Thunderstorms were hoped for today to drive away the oppressive heat which has added thirteen more lives to the season's toll in the metropolitan area.

Eight of the new deaths were due to drowning, as men and women sought relief from the sun's rays at the beaches. Three persons died of heat prostration. One man, crazed by the atmosphere, killed himself.

Scores were prostrated as the mercury climbed steadily.

HOOVER TO PRESENT HIS FARM PROGRAM IN ACCEPTING POST

ABOARD HOOVER SPECIAL, ENROUTE TO PALO ALTO, Calif. July 19.—Herbert Hoover will present a specific farm relief program to American agriculture in his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination at Palo Alto, Cal., August 11, it was learned today on good authority.

Hoover will pledge himself to devote his best administrative efforts toward solving the problem, show that he recognizes the agriculture as the basic industry of the country and propose immediate relief through the development of inland waterways, the adjustment of freight rates on farm products and the orderly marketing of surpluses with government aid, without invoking the equalization fee.

This much was revealed as the Hoover special rolled down out of the rockies and left the greenfields of the agricultural belt far behind. All through the wheat and corn belts, he demonstrated to visitors aboard his train an intimate knowledge of agricultural conditions and disposition to solve the farm problem.

Hoover had farm company clear across the western prairies. First, Governor John H. Hammill, of Iowa came aboard, talked farm problems to him and called him the next president of the United States. Then, Governor Adam McMullen, the Nebraska insurgent, joined the nominee. McMullen declared Hoover showed a "sympathetic attitude toward solving the farm problem' 'and predicted Nebraska would go safely Republican, along with the rest of the farm belt states.

A slightly different problem confronted Hoover once he entered the western mountain ranges. In Wyoming, Governor Frank D. Emerson told him of the cattle industry's problems, all close linked to those of the wheat and corn state. Emerson boarded the train last night at Cheyenne. The nominee was to hear more of his problem on reaching Ogden, about nine today where Governor Fred B. Balzar, of Utah, will meet him.

The candidate will travel across Nevada all afternoon and will reach Reno about 9 o'clock tonight. His new schedule will land him in Sacramento at 5:30 Friday morning, and in Oakland at 9 o'clock. It will cross the bay, avoiding San Francisco, by the Dunbar bridge and take him into Palo Alto by 10:30 Friday morning.

This trip across the country, meeting people by the hundreds and conferring with the Republican leaders, had broken down much of the Hoover reserve. Late yesterday, he sauntered into the club car, where newspaper men were gathered and for the first time since leaving Washington, engaged them in friendly conversation. He explained why he is a shy and reticent man. It is because he dislikes talking when he has nothing to say.

WILL REMOVE UNCONSCIOUS GIRL TO HER HOME

—Plans were started at Lake Plans were started at Lake County Memorial Hospital here today for the removal of Miss Helen Buschmann, 20, Lake Erie College student, who has been unconscious 186 days, to her home at Westfield, Mass., in fourteen days. Miss Buschmann has been in a comatose state since she suffered a fractured skull Jan. 15 last when struck by a motor bus at Mentor, Ohio.

Dr. V. N. Marsh, the coma girl's physician declared that although Miss Buschmann's condition had not changed materially in the last few weeks, he believed his patient's improvement warrents her being taken to her home.

Miss Buschmann has lost no weight while lying so long in bed and is physically normal, Dr. Marsh declared. She has been able to open her eyes at intervals and indicated by moving her head that she understands some questions put to her, the physician added. She has been able to take food voluntarily for nearly two months.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Emma Buschmann, who has been with her daughter here since the accident will accompany her home.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS HAVE NEW MASTER

DETROIT, July 19.—William L. Sharp, of Chicago, automatically becomes most Eminent Grand Master of Knights Templar today with the retirement from that office of George W. Vallery, Denver.

The Templars also are to select the next conclave city. Minneapolis, Boston and Miami are contesting for the honor. Minneapolis is favored.

DISPUTE MAY KEEP GAS FROM CITIES

COLUMBUS, O., July 19—Three Ohio towns—Payne, Antwerp and Paulding, Paulding County—will be without gas after July 22 unless the Schenck Leadford Oil and Gas Company, which serves the towns with fuel, and the "64 Gas Company," from which the former concern buys its gas, reach an agreement, it was learned here today from the public utilities commission.

The "64 Gas Company" has served notice that it will shut off the Schenck Leadford Oil and Gas Company's gas supply unless its bills are paid before next Saturday. The Schenck Leadford Oil and Gas Company was notified by the public utilities commission to immediately confer with its supplying company and reach an agreement and not cause the municipalities to suffer any inconveniences.

DEEP DISHAPPLE PIE

What Roosevelt Family Discusses At Luncheon Table.

Mrs. Richard Derby, left, and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, II.

By IDAH M'GLONE GIBSON
Specially Written for Central Press and The Gazette

One of the most delightful luncheons it has been my good fortune to attend was at the home of Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Arriving a short time before the luncheon was served, Mrs. Roosevelt showed me through the trophy room, which just had been finished. There we were joined by Ethel Roosevelt, the dark-eyed only daughter of Theodore Roosevelt's second wife. Miss Roosevelt, shortly after I met her, became Mrs. Richard Derby.

As we walked through the rooms of the mansion we talked of—baseball!

When I remarked that the rain, which was falling, would spoil my afternoon at the Polo Grounds, Ethel asked quickly: "Do you know any baseball stars?"

Admired Ty Cobb

"Yes, I know John McGraw, Walter Johnson, Grover Alexander and Christy Mathewson," I was beginning to enumerate a few more when she interrupted: "Do you know Ty Cobb? I have always been curious about him. He seems to me to be a superior man as well as superior baseball player."

Just then the colored butler announced: "Luncheon is served," and we filed into the dining room, where we were joined by Mrs. Teddy, Jr., who had been commissioned a few days before to search for some plates in New York "suitable to serve deep dish apple pie," to a family that liked lots of cream.

She evidently was successful, for we each were served with a piece of delectable pie and handed great pitchers of cream from which to take as much as we wanted without the embarrassment of "saying when."

Mrs. Roosevelt's Sympathy

It was shortly after the Lusitania disaster, and the talk veered from baseball and apple pie to the death of Captain Archie Butt, who was military aide to the president. Mrs. Roosevelt paid him a beautiful tribute when she said: "I am afraid we did not appreciate him as we should. His fondness for society and dancing made many overlook his splendid sterling character. I have grieved so deeply for his mother, to whom he was devoted. Her loss must seem irreconcilable to her."

And so the talk continued as we sat in the beautifully appointed dining room, while the rain continued to come down in torrents. Death, sports and food were discussed around the Roosevelt table, just as they are at every other table in the land.

It was still raining when I had to leave and although there seemed to be numerous servants about the house—I counted three in the dining room, during luncheon— Mrs. Roosevelt said: "Ethel, go upstairs and get Mrs. Gibson's coat. She will have to hurry if she makes that train."

When her daughter came back with the wrap, without the slightest self-consciousness, my hostess helped me on with it, and stood on the steps of the colonial portico to wave me a smiling good-bye.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE REJOICING OF GOD—My son, if thine heart be wise, my heart shall rejoice, even mine.—Prov. 23:15.

PENALTY FOR BEING FAMOUS

You read so much in the papers about extraordinary folk, that sometimes you may wilt a little under the impression that you are just an ordinary person, and in no wise notable.

This consciousness should not make you sad. There seems to be a certain glamor about being notable and eminent, but there certainly are compensations attached to the state of being ordinary. The ordinary American makes a pretty good living, has family contacts that are steady and comforting, and is endowed with enough brains and enterprise to carry on his own existence without too much friction.

Now, the extraordinary fellow is often just an ordinary man who has had certain "breaks" that put him in a conspicuous place on the ladder. He is quite a mark, and there are many out with their popguns, shooting at him. His ordinary mind is dizzy with the experience, and it's not so easy for him to get a reasonable amount of sleep as it was before he took the climb.

The ordinary man who has been placed by fortune in a conspicuous place is a worried individual. Maybe he struck oil, as an ordinary man sometimes does. Maybe he bought heavily of Radio or some other "good thing" when it was down, and sold out when it was high. Now, these "breaks" do not generally result from the exercise of brains or judgment. And they do impose upon the lucky fellow the responsibility of being quite rich. Often there are other responsibilities. Somebody thinks that because this young man has made a lot of money and looks serious about it, he ought to be made a cabinet member, a senator, or a diplomat. Well, can you imagine the plight of that ordinary man?

Then there is the genuinely extraordinary man, with an extraordinary mind. He probably has a great imagination and a keen sensibility. He is delicately organized, psychologically and spirituality, and probably physically also. This roughly organized world hurts him. He suffers from fears and fancied slights. He thinks people do not like him, or he worries lest he be misunderstood. He is like a man without any epidermis, trying to work in a flour mill. Everything hurts him, because his environment was made by and for ordinary folk.

Nietzsche was a man of giant intellect, but the world he lived in hurt him so that he fled to a lonely place to escape human contacts. Beethoven suffered spiritual torment all his life, because he could find no place in this ordinary world where he could feel at home. Poe was a constant mourner, and Byron's life was tragedy. Lamb and Goldsmith lived in misery because they could not talk the language of their time and place.

After all, there is much to be thankful for if one is only ordinary. For this is an ordinary man's world.

One man carries $4,500,000 insurance and fifty others a million. They flatter themselves.

Experience is a fairly good teacher, but her pupils usually need a post graduate course.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

WOMEN AND VOTES

The late Theodore Roosevelt used to say, in the days before woman suffrage, that women undoubtedly had the right to vote, but he doubted whether they wanted to vote. Apparently he was partly right. Thousands upon thousands of women care nothing about the right to vote and never exercise the privilege. In 1924 there were 120 women delegates to the national Republican convention. This year there were but 64. Are women taking a decreasing rather than an increasing interest in public affairs and in voting?

HAVE WOMEN HELPED?

No thoughtful person would care to dispute woman's clear right to vote and participate in public affairs in every way. And yet, since women have had the ballot, it is not possible to say that they have had much apparent effect on the conduct of government or that they have changed much the character and characteristics of office holders. They have increased the numbers of ballots to be counted and have raised the cost of elections. They have made a few interesting speeches. Laws are apparently no worse or no better. No great reforms have come into being which, in all probability, would not have come into being anyway.

IN INDIA

It is said that at the time of the great fair at Madras, India, beggars lined the road for two and one-half miles, sitting shoulder to shoulder. And they had assistants who stood by them and asked for alms. Some deep thinking and some sound philosophy have come out of India and the rest of the Far East. The contribution of Oriental life to human kind is immense. But isn't one of the real tests of civilization what it is able to do for the rank and file of the people?

ONE HABIT

If you have any doubt about the continuing power of a habit, you may be interested to know that burned or partly burned cigarets are tossed away by smokers in the United States at the rate of 170,000 a minute. That amounts to 90,000,000,000 a year. Cigaret prices differ, but at the rate of the cheapest that amounts to qiute a bit of money.

* * *

SINCERITY

Sincerity is not something that can be taken on and put off. To the wise observer no pretense can be a substitute for sincerity. You believe in a man or you don't. What he says to you has less effect than he supposes. Sincerity communicates itself by means other than words.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 19.—Incidentally, Thornton Wilder wrote his sensational best seller, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," which has a Peruvian locale, without ever having been in Peru. While he was writing it he asked a traveler if the Andes mountains were visible from Lima, capital of Peru. When informed that they were not, he was much dsappointed. Nevertheless, in his novel he has the Andes visible from Lima!

Charlie Chapin, probably the greatest city editor any New York newspaper ever had, murdered his wife and was sent to Sing Sing for life. Influential friends of his recently sought to obtain a pardon for him. Chapin opposed their efforts. He is editor of the prison paper and prison gardener.

"Please don't bother," he told those who wanted him freed. "I am old now, and I would miss my gardens. Please let me stay here."

New York is all contrasts and contradictions. At East river and Fifty-second streets, in a block where tenement dwellings may be obtained for $30 a month, the world's tallest apartment building is being erected. The apartments will rent for from $200 to $1,000 a month. Sutton place, in the shadow of Queensboro bridge, and within sight of the city prison, on Welfare island, is rapidly being captured from slum dwellers by Social Registerites.

It is a social error to ask a New York girl if she works. To be proper one must ask, "Do you go to business?"

What do you want to know bout New York? Ask C. K., 2200 Times Building, New York, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Chicago Chatter

BY IONE QUINBY

CHICAGO, July 17. — Divorcing a husband doesn't necessarily mean divorcing his family. Mrs. Mary Weir Logan, who married Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., ten minutes after she shook off her first marital shackles in Reno, was given congratulatory parties by her first husband's family in Chicago.

The new Mrs. Vanderbilt's most intimate friends is her former husband's divorced sister-in-law, and she is on exceptionally good terms with her ex-mother-in-law. General good will exists in the entire Logan family despite several separations and divorces, and the progeny of the family continually are visiting their ex-aunties. It would seem life is being taken philosophically in metropolitan circles.

Also Mrs. Helen Brosius Logan served as bridesmaid recently in a family wedding party in which her ex-husband was best man. The ex-sisters-in-law were said to be present at the wedding of the girl who — if they hadn't just been divorced— would have been their new sister-in-law.

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and her ex-husband, Harold, have gone to the same family reunions and holiday parties. Another instance of modern harmony ex-familia is that of a well-known Chicago artist who got his first big commission painting his wife's frst husband. The commission put the artist and his wife on easy street. Anyhow, it took them out of a rather dingy top floor, one room apartment and transported them to an apartment of good lights and a sunken bathtub.

The funniest instance I ever heard of in regard to ex-relations was when a Red Cap, over at the LaSalle street station, insisted upon basking in the limelight of his famous ex-brother-in-law, Marty Durkin. The Red Cap stopped me one day when I was over there meeting Mary Pickford on the Twentieth Century.

"Say, Miss Reporter," he said, when the last Mary Pickford fan had disappeared. "I c'n give you a better story than that. I c'n give you the lowdown on Marty Durkin when he lived with his first wife. Do you know who I am? Well," puffing out his chest, "I'm Marty's brother-in-law by his first divorced wife." Marty was on trial for killing a federal officer and for stealing innumerable automobiles. He got thirty-five years in Joliet penitentiary.

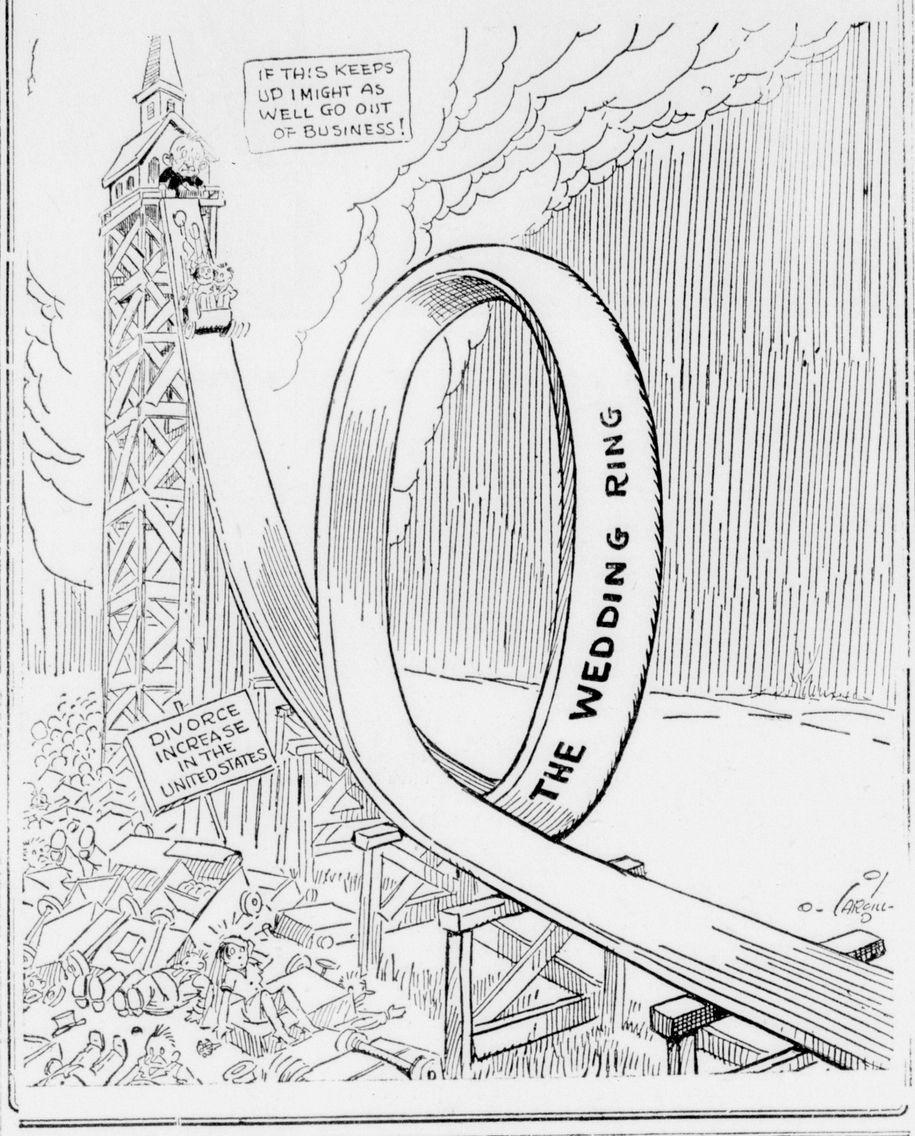

The champion endurance strap hanger has been found. He lives away out in the northern section of the city, and says he has hung into a strap every day for 50 years, three hours a day, barring Sundays. He began back in the days of the horse car, and still is going strong.

Chicagoans like atmosphere and they'll pay for it even if it's faked. I have a Russian sister-in-law who came to Chicago for the first time, four years ago. I thought it would be nice to take her to a certain Russian tearoom. Before we left she confided to me that the waiters were all French and Italian, the decorations German and, the cigaret girls' costumes Dutch. The only Russian thing about it was the tea served with rum drops.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

HAIR IS THE CROWNING GLORY

I do not believe there is any woman who has not a secret pride in the texture, thickness and beauty of her hair. And if I am wrong, and there is, this little article will, I hope, help her back to the self-confidence which beautiful hair instills.

Really beautiful hair, and its beauty may be in abundance, texture, color or all three, is quite capable of redeeming many a plain face and lending definite attraction to an otherwise unbeautiful person.

Before we go further in the matter I want to warn you of the dangers of a carelessly wielded brush. I know, as we all do, the great American dictum of 100 strokes of the hair brush every day. And I believe in it too, but I modify my advice on this matter by cautioning you against "tearing" at your hair with rough bristles in an unskilled and usually impatient hand.

New hair is light and fragile and quite easily ripped from the scalp by vigorous brushing.

Treat your hair gently. It deserves at least that much consideration from you.

The first office of a hair brush is to spread the natural satiny gloss, which is, in itself, hair beauty. Secondly, it is useful in removing dust, dirt and dandruff which is flying loose through the hair itself.

I strongly advocate the use of military brushes for this purpose, for they insure even, gentle, distributed pressure, and never injure either the scalp or the young hair growing out.

Wire hair brushes, now practically obsolete, I am thankful to know, are barbarous instruments certain to irritate and injure the scalp in time, and decidedly inimical to the growth and health of the hair.

Weather, too, generally affects the condition of a woman's hair. It is interesting to know that California women are famous for their exceedingly beautiful hair, abundant, glossy and supple. This undoubtedly accountable to the mild and favorable climate. Severe cold is always inimical to the growth and beauty of the hair.

There are, however, certain practical precautions, which, followed faithfully, will speedily develop the beauty and growth of your hair.

Diet and Health

IF YOU SKIP THIS—!

My Dear Followers:

Please do not depend upon answers from me for conditions that should have the immediate personal attention of a physician, and do not depend on the column for such advice, for even though your questions can be answered in the column, and answered immediately, it is at least four weeks before the answer can appear.

My Diet and Health column is a syndicated feature appearing all over the United States and Canada, and is written and sent out from New York. This means it has to be written four weeks in advance. The column creates great interest wherever it appears, and its combined mail from the different places is enormous. In order to be able to handle the mail and be helpful to you, we have formulated the following rules, and unless they are complied with, your letters cannot receive attention.

1. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. They will be forwarded to my New York office. Sign your name as evidence of good faith; it will not be used in any way. (When I answer you in the column, I use one initial.)

2. Write legibly and with a pen —if your handwriting is not clear, get someone to write for you, or use a typewriter. Do not write more than 200 words. Remember the enormous number of letters I get.

3. When you ask for material which we offer in the column from time to time, you must enclose a large-sized, self-addressed stamped envelope (s. a. s. e.) and two cents. The address must include your full name, street and number, town and state. (Do not simply write "City," for we cannot tell which city it is.) The booklet on Petersizing—gaining and reducing—is the only one for which you must include ten cents in coin extra. (Only one reducing and gaining pamphlet will be sent to a letter.)

4. Do not ask for diagnosis or individual treatment; I am not in private practice in any way. Your questions will be answered in the column as soon as possible if they are of general interest and can be answered in a newspaper column. Watch the daily articles for something similar to the questions you want discussed, and consider yourself answered when you see them, whether your initials are appended or not. I must answer questions collectively many times in order to save time and space.

5. Allow at least three weeks to lapse before thinking your request for material has gone astray or is not answered because you have not followed the rules. Allow a much longer time for an answer to appear in the column.

Don't forget to enclose the s. a. s. e. and two cents with your request for any material, and the additional ten cents in coin if you desire the booklet on gaining and reducing. If you ask for more than one article, better send a large and double-stamped envelope. I shall run these rules at stated times to remind you and to keep the newcomers in line.

Your message telling me how much you enjoy the column and how much benefit you derive from it, are an inspiration to me and to the followers, and make our work happier and therefore more helpful. So I feel like adding a last rule. Save some of your 200 words to continue this practice!

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed stamped envelope and two cents in coin for each article to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, ten cents in coin with fully s. a. s. e. must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of this paper.

MENU HINT

Get a fairly thick steak to broil, an inch and a half or so. Any steak that is left over may be used to make a pie or ground up and made into hash or sandwiches, or various other ways. If you are not sure about the tenderness of the steak, soak it for an hour in French dressing or rub olive oil in on both sides before you broil it.

Today's Recipes

Broiled Steak—Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and place near the flame, so that the meat sears quickly. Turn often. It is the quick cooking on first one side and then the other, causing the juices to run back and forth along the sinews which makes for flavor.

French Fried Potatoes—Peel potatoes and cut in strips. Soak in cold water for at least an hour. Dry on a cloth and fry in deep fat until a golden brown.

Stuffed Cucumbers—Peel cucumbers, cut in halves lengthwise. Remove pulp and chop. Mix pulp with an equal amount of grated pineapple. Sprinkle salt in cucumber cases, fill with stuffing and serve with French or mayonnaise dressing, according to taste.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

Alexander Graham Bell once told me that if he had been a trained electrical engineer, he would never have invented the telephone. The whole mechanism of a phone is so simple that a more experienced man would have said:

"No use to try that. It's so obvious that if it would work, somebody would have done it long ago."

I imagine that much the same thing happens in every line of business. Just recently a real estate man told me that he had wondered for years why an important corner in his town wasn't bought. The price seemed low enough, but nobody was interested in picking it up. Everybody thought there must be something wrong with it, or else somebody would buy it. Finally this man decided to buy it. Then the spell was broken. Others, after hearing that the corner had changed hands, decided that there was nothing wrong with it after all. So many wanted it then that the price soon doubled. Everybody had neglected a chance for quick profits because the thing looked too easy.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 19. —The public never pays much attention to anybody but the heads of the two tickets, and their running mates, in a "presidential year."

Candidates for such one-horse jobs as senators' and representatives' amount to mighty little in the average voter's estimation.

And yet they're pretty important jobs—not only to the chaps who are running for them, but from the standpoint of the big party organizations. A president with congress "agin" him is in a middling unpleasant fix. All his policies are tied up tight. His pet appointments are apt to be turned down. He's bothered by investigations. He's played horse with, generally.

President Coolidge has been situated more or less like this ever since he's been in office.

He's had a real majority back of him in the house of representatives, but in the senate only a "paper" one. Actually, there have been three senate groups, and whenever the Democrats and "progressives" have combined, they've had the administration beaten. True, some of the senate Democrats are Republicans under their veneer, and occasionally they've flopped over to the president's side and helped him, which has taken part of the curse off.

Still, it hasn't been a satisfactory line-up to orthodox "G. O. P." -ites.

What the Herbert Hoover folks are preparing to do now is to move heaven and earth to get their man into the White House with all the congressional trimmings.

Anything less will be only a fractional victory, whichever side wins it.

The rank and file of the electorate probably will count it as out-and-out Republican triumph if Hoover's vote tops Al's, or an open-and-shut "k. o." in Smith's favor if he gets more ballots than Herbert does. The politicians will reserve their decision until they've totted up the results from all the congressional districts.

The fact is, it looks as if it would be extraordinarily difficult for either Hoover or Smith to take over the presidency with a clear majority in both houses of congress back of him.

Among the representatives yes perhaps.

Theyre all elected at once, a land-slide can do wonders their branch.

But the senate?—with only third of its members' terms expiring at a clatter—that's different. First, you have to deduct the two-thirds of holdovers. Then you have to deduct all the rest from states where a nomination's equivalent to an election. It doesn't leave many to jigger with.

Moreover, if Hoover wins there are bound to be quite a few so-called Republican senators who won't be pro-Hoover republicans. Or, if Al wins, it's equally certain that a number of so-called Democrats won't be pro-Smith Democrats.

Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, for instance—you can't imagine him as supporting many Hoover policies. Or Senator Heflin of Alabama!—can you think of him as voting to sustain Al Smith, on a veto?

And there are others — both ways.

In one respect, Al might be at an advantage over Herbert.

As governor of New York, Smith's thoroughly accustomed to dealing with an adverse legislature. However, our national efficiency expert par excellence, mightn't have much patience with sand in the governmental bearings —and it profits a president mighty little to be on continual bad terms with congress.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

LOVERS' QUARREL

We are apt to laugh at a lovers' quarrel and think them of no account. But many a life has been ruined by an argument over what was probably of no account at first, but which was made serious by both parties being too proud to acknowledge they were in the wrong. One of our readers is worried by a situation which she can see is going to lead to misery for three persons and in which she sees no way out.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I do need your advice quickly, and it is all about my boy friend and I having a terrible quarrel last year. To spite him I was engaged to another man. I could not go through with it and broke the engagement. Now two months ago I heard that the fellow I loved was to marry another girl. Today he met me on the street and made the remark that I was too weak to go through with my plans but he wasn't, though he still loves me and at times hates the other girl.

"They are to be married next week. What will I do If he loved her I would never think of ruining their happiness, but don't you see he is doing the other girl wrong? I'll admit I do love him, still I may learn to forget while the other girl never could, if he did the wrong he is about to do. VIOLET."

I hardly see what you can do about it, Violet. Probably the girl he is to marry wouldn't believe you if you did tell her the circumstances. I think, of course, that you showed the strength in not marying a man you did not love, and he is the weak one. Maybe if you threatened to tell the girl that he told you that he didn't love her, but prefers you, it might do some good. It certainly is too bad to let your quarrel go so far. And then, of course, there is the chance that he really loves the girl he is to marry and everything will come out all right.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl 14 and go with a boy 19. I love him very much and I think he loves me. He sometimes gets drunk, but never when he is with me. He got fresh once and asked me to do some very disgraceful thing. He gambles and usually wins. Please don't ask me to give him up, Mrs. Lee. Do you think he will give up drinking and gambling if he loves me? MISS H."

Probably not, as he has made no move to do so, so far.

HAS ALL THE VICES

A recently appointed vicar, in his first sermon, spoke severely against betting. After the sermon was over a parishioner told the clergyman that one of the wealthiest members of his congregation was a notorious gambler. The vicar, not wishing to begin badly, approached the rich man after the service, and said:

"I'm afraid I must have offended you today, but——"

"Don't mention it," was the answer. "It's a mighty bad sermon that doesn't hit me somewhere."

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

Two Little Lovers In Green

"Wife and I looked in the direction from whence the voice came and there upon a bough right above the cool water sat two birds. They were much smaller than either Toco or the Parrot in fact they were not a great deal larger than were we ourselves—but they wore a coat of bright grass-green trimmed with blue and black. They were pretty birds and they were sitting so close together that their feathers were all mixed up. One could hardly tell which belonged to who. The sweet voice continued:"'We love each other so very much that we have no time to spend on any one else at all. But we do not hate any one; we think of every one as our friend and when we meet a stranger we like him right away. You seem like very nice little birds. We are sorry we cannot visit with you, we might learn many things, but we have so much to say to each other that we cannot spare a moment. You will excuse us, wont you?'

"At this strange speech we Bobolinks could not find a word to say. We could only look in surprise at two birds who could talk only to each other. They must have been separated a long while to find each other so interesting that they couldn't even chat for a moment with strangers. We didn't mean to listen, but we couldn't help it. Before we could fly away, and just as though we were not around, the two green birds continued their conversation. And this is all they said:—

"'I love you, dear,' this from the one who had spoken with us.

"'And I love you. How wonderful you are, so brave and so loyal!'

"'There is no bird in all the world as fair as you; you have a lovely figure, my dear, so plump, and your feathers every one of them is as soft as down. I would rather snuggle here by your side than do anything else I could think of.'

"'It makes me very happy to hear you say that any darling husband, for I know that if anything should ever happen to you I should just curl up and die. Don't you remember how Aunt Green-Tail felt when Uncle Black-Collar met with that accident that cost him his life? Why she wouldn't eat a thing, not one of us could coax her to take even a drink and she sat upon the branch where they had so often perched together and just drooped and drooped and drooped! Poor Auntie grew thinner and thinner and one morning when we went to see her she wasn't on the perch at all. She had grown too weak to hold on and had fallen to the ground. There we found her and we knew that she was happy, for she had gone to join Uncle Black-Collar. We wept and covered her with leaves. That is what would happen to me, dear, if you should leave me. You will be careful not to meet with an accident won't you?'

"'Of course, wifie. Don't worry your dear little head about that. I love you.'

"At that point the conversation began all over again. But wifie and I had heard about all of that silly talk that we cared to. No mates are more affectionate than Bobolinks but we don't talk about our love all the time. We believe actions speak louder than words. So Mrs. Bob and I hurried off as fast as our wings would carry us, and for all we know those Love Birds are loving yet!"

WILMINGTON GOLF TEAM BEATS XENIA

The Xenia Country Club was defeated in its first inter-city golf match of the season by the Snow Hill Country Club, 36 to 26, Nassau count, in a match over the course at Wilmington Wednesday afternoon.

Twenty-three golfers composed the Xenia match team which made the trip. Dinner was served the players of both teams following the match.

Dr. C. S. Adams, of Antioch College, turned in an eighty-one for the eighteen holes, giving him low score for Xenia. A Wilmington golfer shot a seventy-six.

Wilmington will come to Xenia for a return match later in the season. Xenia has also arranged home-and-home matches with Middletown.

GIVEN HEARING

George Killeen and Son, Xenia, were scheduled to be given a hearing Thursday by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission on their application seeking to extend a freight motor route from Xenia to Cincinnati, according to a Columbus announcement.

FORMER GRID STAR LEADING HOOSIER G. O. P. THIS YEAR

Harry G. Leslie, above, as he is now; below, when a football star.

By H. C. LIGHT
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 19. — Fame on the football field is usually fleeting, but Harry G. Leslie, the Republican party's candidate for governor of Indiana, owes much of his present popularity to the record he made as an athlete at Purdue University, his Alma Mater, some twenty-five years ago. And if he plays the political game as he played football against Purdue's traditional rivals in those early days of gridiron sport in the middle west, it will be very difficult to halt him in his race for the gubernatorial mansion at Indianapolis.

"Skillet," as he was called, was about everything that one man could be in sports at Purdue during his college career. He played end and halfback on the varsity eleven for four years, first base position on the varsity baseball team, and served as Purdue's first athletic director in the days when students managed the athletic affairs at the university. He was class president in his junior and senior years, and is perhaps the only college graduate in the country who bears the distinction of having been president of two graduating classes.

Won Fame On Gridiron

This is how it happened. "Skillet" was a member of the Purdue football squad that figured in the Big Four railroad wreck at Indianapolis on October 31, 1903, when sixteen members on the squad were killed. The first section of the Purdue special train to the annual game with Indiana university, at the state capital, collided with a string of coal cars, and the football players, riding in a light coach immediately behind the locomotive were the worst sufferers. Leslie was given up for dead, but, displaying the same fighting spirit that made him a terror on the gridiron, he proceeded to ignore the doctors' pronouncement, and after passing thirty-eight weeks in a hospital, got well. He still bears the scars of his injury.

His misfortune set him back one year in his graduation from Purdue. He had been a member of the class of 1904, but was compelled to postpone his graduation uitil June 1905. The '04 class refused to elect another president, voting that the popular football hero should continue to bear the honor, although he did not receive his diploma in 1904. Then the class of 1905 adopted him and made him its president. The university records show him as president of both graduating classes.

Many tales are told of Leslie's prowess on the gridiron and the diamond. More than one Purdue football victory was the direct result of his determination to win, and his skill in advancing the ball. And in baseball, more than once a timely hit by "Skillet" brought victory to his team.

In the years that have elapsed since then, Leslie has put aside athletics, but has never lost one bit of his interest in sports, and today he is serving as alumni secretary at Purdue, a position that has much to do with stimulating alumni interest in Purdue teams. He is 50 and has served as town clerk of West Lafayette, treasurer of Tippecanoe County and speaker of the house of representatives in the Indiana general assembly. He has also been United States commissioner in the Lafayette district.

The housewives of West Lafayette gave him his start in politics. He worked as a delivery boy for a grocery while attending high school and decided to run for town clerk. He had been so courteous to the women to whom he delivered groceries that they lined up their husbands in his behalf and the contest was a walkaway for the high school lad.

Leslie, in addition to being a former athlete of renown, also is a lawyer and a dirt farmer, as he owns and operates a corn belt farm in Warren County which adjoins Tippecanoe County on the west. He is married and his family consists of a wife and three sons, the eldest being 14.

MRS. CORDLE'S DAUGHTER LIKE A DIFFERENT GIRL

Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

DAUGHTER OF MRS. G. H. CORDLE
833 Hazel St., Macon, Georgia

Macon, Ga.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel much relieved and I am giving it to my daughter, too. At twelve years of age she was so pale that even her lips had no color. She couldn't hold out to do any work to amount to anything. I gave her the Vegetable Compound and now at 13 years of age she is like a different girl. We are willing for you to use these facts for a testimonial as we cannot praise the Vegetable Compound too much. We will continue to take it and tell of its wonderful value."—Mrs. G. H. Cordle, 833 Hazel Street, Macon, Georgia.

Will Answer Letters

"I am a young mother, eighteen years of age. From early girlhood I suffered terribly because of a run-down condition. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it would help me, as she was worried. I did, and now I feel fine. After suffering for five years like I did and then taking nothing but the Vegetable Compound, you may be sure I am recommending it to others. I am willing for you to use anything I say as a testimonial and I will answer letters from any woman wanting to know about the medicine."—Mrs. Dewey Moore, 827 Broderick St., Columbus, Ohio.

PRISONER ESCAPES FROM COUNTY JAIL WEDNESDAY NIGHT

William Cummings, this city, serving out a fine of $50 and costs and sentence of sixty days imposed by Mayor John W. Prugh July 5 for assault, walked away from the County Jail shortly after 6 o'clock Wednesday night, Sheriff Ohmer Tate announced Thursday.

Since his incarceration in jail, Sheriff Tate declared he has been permitting Cummings, accompanied by a federal prisoner, on three different evenings to empty garbage in the rear of the jail.

Cummings trailed along behind the federal prisoner Wednesday night and when they reached the gate in the rear of the garage, Cummings made his get-away while his fellow prisoner was not looking.

The escape was reported to Sheriff Tate several minutes later but despite a thorough search of the city, which lasted four hours, Cummings could not be found. Sheriff Tate believes he has left the city.

Cummings was committed to jail by Mayor Prugh after pleading guilty to assaulting his wife, Nettie, who filed the affidavit against her husband.

Previous to his arrest on this charge, Cummings had been convicted in Common Pleas Court of a statutory offense and sentenced to Ohio State Penitentiary. The Greene County Court of Appeals reversed the conviction because of the trial court's alleged error in a charge to the jury, and the case was remanded for re-trial. Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall subsequently nolled the case and Cummings was discharged from custody after serving a considerable time in the state penitentiary while his case was being appealed.

BUY BOILER PUMP

Purchase of a boiler feed pump to be used in the Court House heating plant, from The Kelso-Wagner Co., Dayton, O., at a cost of $290, has been authorized by County Commissioners.

The Dayton firm will also repair the present vacuum pump used in connection with the heating plant.

TROOPERS ENJOY TARGET PRACTICE

CAMP PERRY, O., July 19.—Ohio National Guard troops continued warfare training today with target practice on a new range located a mile and one-half from the camp's headquarters.

Motor trucks transport the troops to the new field of action where machine guns, one pounders and trench mortars "barked" nearly all day yesterday.

A total of thirty officers and 130 enlisted men are to be selected from the state militia for duty at the Ohio state fair, Columbus in August, it was said. Of these five officers and forty men of the present encampment will be chosen.

Maj. E. F. Marks will receive applications for state fair duty July 24 and final selection will be made the next day.

CITY AUTHORIZES $11,000 BOND ISSUE TO BUY FIRE TRUCK

By a vote of 3 to 2, City Commission, at a recess meeting Thursday noon, passed an ordinance authorizing a $11,000 bond issue to finance purchase of a new fire truck, having an auxiliary pumper unit, from the Seagrave Corp., Columbus, to increase the efficiency of the Xenia Fire Department.

Commissioners S. M. McKay, Karl Babb and E. E. Lighthiser voted favorably for the bond issue, but Commissioners John W. Prugh and Jacob Kany opposed it, contending a cheaper fire truck should be purchased.

The ordinance was up for its second reading at the regular meeting last Thursday night but action was deferred.

The Columbus firm submitted a bid of $12,500 for furnishing the truck, but concessions obtained by the commission reduced the actual purchase price to $11,000.

The bond issue is for ten years. Under the law, the bonds must first be offered for purchase to the interest and sinking fund trustees and then to the state industrial commission. Failing in this, the bonds will be offered at public sale.

BODY OF CARRANZA PASSES XENIA ON SPECIAL THURSDAY

A Pennsylvania special train carrying the body of Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexican good will flier, who lost his life when his plane crashed at the outset of a return flight to his homeland, passed through Xenia without stopping at 9 a. m. Thursday, enroute to Mexico from New York City.

Forty soldiers, members of Company 1, Tenth Infantry, Fort Hayes, paid tribute to the flyer during a thirty-minute stop-over of the train at Columbus at 6:30 a. m. Thursday. Arriving at Dayton, the train stopped for ten minutes Thursday morning. Officers of Wright Field and an air fleet met the train.

With Captain Rowan H. Greer in charge, an escort of seven officers placed a wreath on the bier of the flyer. At the same time a fleet of planes was to pass over the funeral train in honor of the dead flyer.

Similar honors are to be extended in every city through which the train passes where federal troops are stationed.

AUTOIST HURT WHEN CAR HITS VIADUCT

A man who gave the name of Bowen, a Springfield shoe merchant, escaped serious injury when his automobile crashed into the north abutment of the Pennsylvania Railroad viaduct over the Springfield Pike south of Old Town about 9:30 Wednesday night.

Bowen said that he believed he had fallen asleep at the wheel, and he failed to negotiate the turn in the pike under the viaduct. The machine was badly damaged. Bowen suffered a bruise on the head and cuts. He was picked up and taken into Springfield by passersby and the car was later removed to a Yellow Springs garage. Tragedy That Cost Two Lives

This is the wreckage of the airplane in which Morris M. Titterington, vice-president and chief engineer of the Pioneer Instrument Co. of Brooklyn, and Lucretia Perry Andrews, pretty actress-divorcee, crashed to their death near Pottsville, Pa. Inset are photos of the victims.

New Job for Flyer

Clarence Chamberlin, transatlantic aviator, now can be found, most any day, at a desk at the municipal airport on Barren Island, N. Y. He has been appointed aeronautic engineer at a salary of $1,000 a month. Chamberlin is the first to occupy that position in New York.

New Democratic Vice-Chairmen

The appointments of Scott Ferris, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and Governor Harry Byrd of Virginia, above, left to right, as vice chairmen of the Democratic national committee, have been announced by Chairman John J. Raskob, financial wizard of General Motors whom Governor Smith called in to manage his presidential campaign.

PEGGY'S TO WED ANOTHER TITLE

Just as soon as ever she can—that is as soon as her fiance gets his divorce decree from the former Follies girl, Jessica Brown—Peggy Joyce, many times married Broadway show girl, is to wed Lord David Northesk, of London, she says. Peggy and Lord Northesk, above, are vacationing at Deauville, France, and it was there that he asked for her hand. She says his proposal is the most beautiful she ever has had. She has come into wealth through her various marriages.

Waiting for "Mexico's Lindy"

This picture shows Senora Rodriguez y Carranza, mother of the gallant young flier, who crashed to his death while attempting a non-stop flight from Roosevelt Field to Mexico City, and her son's wife, a bride of only a few weeks, as they appeared at the time of his good will hop to Washington.

Prohibition's Standard Bearers

William F. Varney of Rockville Center, N. Y. (left) was nominated for president on the second ballot at the Prohibition convention in Chicago, and James A. Edgerton, of Alexandria, Va., was chosen as his running mate on the first ballot. The latter headed the Jefferson-Lincoln league movement to unite the Prohibition and Farmer-Labor parties.

PICTURE HAT'S "THE THING"

The so-called "picture hat" is "the thing" for summertime. Usually it is made of straw. Illustrated are three typical creations, left, above, a model of swiss hair combined with felt and organdie. Right, tailored bakou with black butterfly as decoration. Below, exotic straw with large bow as only trimming.

Because the Hon. Elsie Mackay forgot to pay the premium on Captain Walter Hinchcliffe's life insurance before they started on their attempt to fly the Atlantic, the flier's widow, shown above with her two children, is now destitute. She has appealed to Lord Inchcape, Miss Mackay's father, to aid in taking care of her children.

MISSOURI IN POLITICAL SCRAP

Democratic campaign in Missouri has been enlivened by a battle within the party between Senator James A. Reed, supporter of Alfred E. Smith, for the presidency, and Charles M. Hay, of St. Louis, leader of the "Wilson Democrats," and long a foe of the senator's who is seeking the U. S. senatorial nomination to succeed Reed. Reed has come out in support of his old friend, James A. Collett, of Salisbury, who also seeks the nomination. Above, Hay and his daughter, Frances, 20, who drives her father to his meetings. Below, Reed, left, and Collett.

FAMILY QUINTET TO GET DEGREES

A mother's dreams will come true, in September, when Mrs. Mamie M. Retallick and her four sons, Kenneth, Van, Vivian and Virgil are graduated from Wilmington, O., college. Left a widow years ago, Mrs. Retallick has put her boys and herself through school "on a teacher's salary."

Breaks Six World's Records

Piloting the navy flying boat XPN-12 with a crew of four men besides himself, Lieut. A. W. Gorton, U. S. N. (inset) broke six world's aviation records: (1) the endurance record for that type ship; (2) range for type and load, covering 1,350 miles; (3, 4 and 5) speed for distance up to 2,000 kilometers, the plane averaging 83 miles per hour, breaking the record for carrying loads of 500, 1,000 and 2,000 kilograms, and (6) range for a load of 1,000 kilograms and traveling 2,150 kilometers. The above photo shows the XPN-12 during her remarkable trials.

TO "PUMP" WAY ACROSS OCEAN

Virgil Anderson, above, who served as a submarine and airplane mechanic during the World war, claims to have perfected a new method of marine propulsion, whereby an ocean liner can cross the Atlantic in approximately 36 hours. His boat is propelled through the water by pumping. Motive power is transmitted to twin pistons, workin[illegible]indrical pipes which draw in the water and discharge it unc[illegible]ressure. Nozzles at the end of these pipes can be revol[illegible]to guide the boat in any desired direction. Above. Ande[illegible]inting to the nozzles.

RITA CAREWE WEDS DAD'S "FIND"

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES

Burned and Itched. Caused Eruptions. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face broke out with small pimples that were scaly and red. After washing, the pimples burned and itched, causing me to scratch them. Scratching caused eruptions that were very annoying and disfigured my face.

"I tried several different remedies but without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and found that they helped me, and after using three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and about six cakes of Cuticura Soap I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Evelyn Smith, R. R. 4, Omaha, Neb., Jan. 23, 1928.

Powder Means Much To Me

By Edna Wallace Hopper

The average woman considers the actress hopelessly ahead of her in the art of enhancing natural beauty.

The reason for this advantage is that the actress makes a business of attracting and she must "know how." It is her bread and butter.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

In the matter of powder, for instance my forty odd years on the stage have made me almost unbelievably exacting. I never considered the cost of my powder, so long as it pleased me.

After years of searching I found in France the powder that now adds the last touch to my careful toilette. It satisfies me because it has the one quality I have found in no other powder. That is, it blends so smoothly with the texture of my skin that my face never looks "made up" when I am off-stage.

Because it lends such natural bloom I call it my Youth Powder. In the immense quantities now produced I am able to offer it to women at a low price.

If your skin requires a clinging powder I advise using my Youth Powder in the Heavy Type. It also can be had in the Light Type. Both have the same delicate elusive fragrance.

BANK CONTESTS TAX OF CAPITAL STOCK

CINCINNATI, O., July 19—Contesting the constitutionality of Ohio's new banking law taxing the capital stock of banks, the Lincoln National Bank here today had been granted a temporary federal injunction against the Hamilton County treasurer who sought to enforce the law.

The Cincinnati banking house is the fourth banking concern in Ohio to protest the constitutionality of the law, three Columbus banks having filed similar protest suits.

"GOING TO WIN"

"General" Coxey Here On Campaign

"GENERAL" COXEY

More than thirty years ago General Jacob Schler Coxey, Sr., Massillon, O., led an army across country to Washington to demand the issue of legal tender currency secured by non-interest bearing public bonds with which to employ men out of work on good roads and other public improvements.

"Coxey's Army" was greeted with signs of "Keep Off the Grass." Recently General Coxey made another march on Washington for the same purpose, this time alone. Now he wants to return a third time—this time as the representative of the people of Ohio and is seeking the Republican nomination for the short term of U. S. Senator to succeed the late Senator Frank B. Willis.

The money issue is again the principal issue on which Coxey is making his campaign, but to it he has added a plank supporting an initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution, which he says is the most likely means to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

Although past seventy years of age, General Coxey is campaigning the state on these issues, travelling by automobile, shaking hands with the voters and passing out literature. In Xenia Wednesday afternoon he spent two hours putting out his campaign tracts and cards and called on local politicians. He is the same militant Coxey who led the army of the unemployed in spite of his years.

"I'm going to win", he said here Wednesday. "I met Senator Fess this morning in Yellow Springs and told him I was going to win". He said Senator Fess replied: "That's the right way to feel about it."

NORTHERN OHIO IS RELIEVED BY RAIN

CLEVELAND, July 19—Northeastern Ohio was relieved somewhat by thundershowers and refreshing breezes early today, from the intense heat suffered yesterday when the mercury, in some sections, rose to 90 degrees.

One death from heat and two drownings was yesterday's toll in this section, police reported.

Joe Tesar, 15, succumbed to the heat. Edward Sullivan, 18, was drowned in the Rocky River district here and Joseph Simon, 15, met death the same way in the Black River, Lorain, O.

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Mary James, sweet as the blue grass in which she used to love to lie and dream the lazy Kentucky days away, has waited ever since she was a tiny girl for the opening of "The Letter." Her mother, little Mlle. Marcella Odette, French singer, died the night she was born, leaving two letters. One was to her father, Daniel Webster James, ignorant, self-styled, mountaineer parson, begging him to give Janet Mary to Mr. and Mrs. Pete Elmer, who took her in when she was friendless; the other to Janet, to be opened on her eighteenth birthday. Janet, who, with the life savings of the old mountaineers, was given a splendid education in a private school fifty miles from Big Creek, her home, has but one aim in life—Broadway and the stage. Auntie and Uncle Pete, with dread, wait for the next day; they know Janet will leave their mountains soon. To Janet, the minutes drag like hours, while she wonders what is in "The Letter" and what it will mean in her life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

* * *

CHAPTER II

Auntie Pete, stroking the black head that nestled in her homely apron, turned to her husband with a nod:

"Pete, go and git my old treasure box with the brass key, under the mattress in our room. Bring me the key. I will give her 'The Letter.'"

Now that the moment had actually arrived, Janet dreaded it.

Her throat tightened as she clutched "The Letter" in trembling hands. She looked at the pretty writing through eyes that blurred with tears.

"My—my poor little mother. Alone and dying—and thinking only of me."

Tears streamed down the cheeks of Auntie ePte. There was something uncanny in the moment. Pete shivered. It would seem like a voice from the grave, the lovely, singing voice of Marcella. He closed his eyes and saw her coming from the cellar, her arms filled with provisions from the store, her head thrown back singing—always singing.

Pete Elmer turned and left the house. And for the first time in years he cried. Great sobs shook his big frame.

Janet, her face white, clutched Auntie Pete's hand tightly. There was something ghostly about it to her, too. Auntie Pete rose and wiped her eyes.

"You best should read it by yourself, honey child. I'll go find Pete."

Janet slowly tore the corner from the envelope, and took the closely-written sheets in trembling fingers.

"My precious Child:

"Today I have a feeling that the end is near. I know that you will be a little girl. But a certain feeling is in my sad heart that you will be left to grow up without your mama, mon petite cherie.

"It is a feeling of Fate. I cannot understand—but I know.

"When you open this letter you will be eighteen. It is just the age that I left my France to come to America. I was alone in France, except for one uncle. My parents had been dead two years.

"I wanted to be a singer, and a kind woman helped me to get to America. She felt I would be better there. But there were so many things happened to make me unhappy. I was not a success.

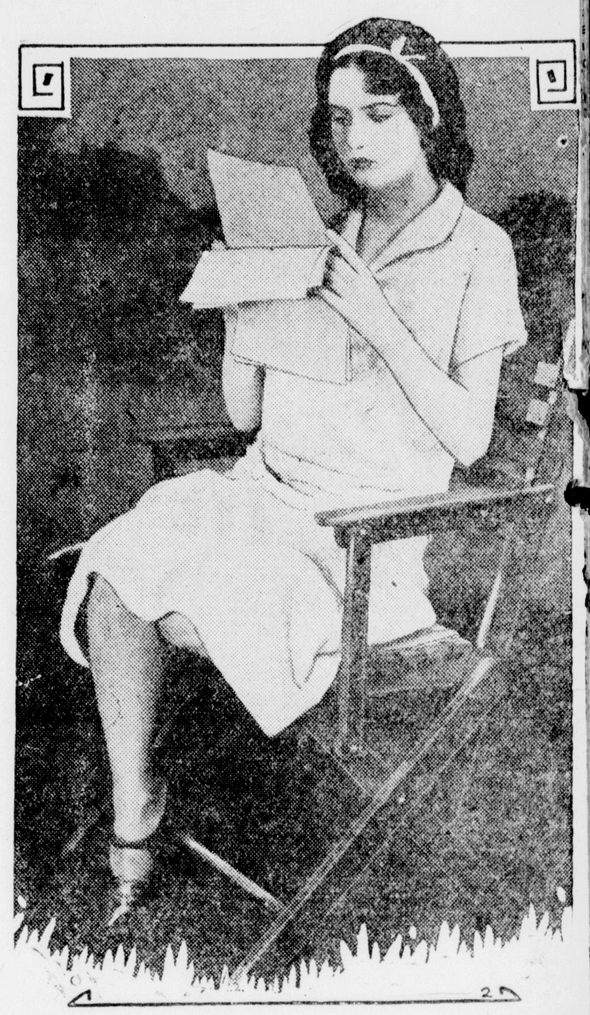

"I want you, my little Janet Mary, to take up where mama left off. I want you to be a good girl—and I am not afraid that you will not be. You will have a voice; of that I am sure. I feel you will sing like a little lark. I will be near to guide you. I want you to feel that your mama is always with you, darling....."

Janet was crying a scared little girl cry. She could scarcely see the words. Her tears fell and mottled the pages.

The letter told of the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer, and begged Janet to abide by their judgment and love and trust them always. There was but small mention of her father when Marcella wrote:

"Your father is young and he will not understand like they. His work is different. But you must not blame him. We all have our beliefs and he feels he is right."

Janet Mary sobbed. She could read between the lines of her little mother's suffering. She had not been happy in the mountains with her parson. There were messages for Janet alone—and so intimate were they that she felt she were talking to her mother. It became more personal with every line—a mother pouring out her heart to the child she would never see.

Marcella gave Janet the address of an uncle in France, Jules Mollinar, and told her to write and see if he were still alive.

Janet stumbled to her room and sat for an hour with the letter, reading and re-reading it, until she knew it by heart. Then she sat down and wrote to her uncle, giving him her mother's message, and telling a great deal about her life.

Auntie Pete looked in, say Janet with her head buried in her pillow, and knew that she was crying it all out. Like the understanding soul she had always been, she closed the door and left her to her sorrow.

A few weeks later Janet was beginning to despair of word from her uncle, when she was thrilled with a big letter of foreign postmark.

She opened it—and a check fell out with a typewritten letter. The check, from Uncle Jules on a New York bank, was for one thousand dollars. The letter was a friendly one, begging her to "accept the enclosed as a little start on your career."

Janet fell down on her knees beside her bed, moved to a prayer of thanks. But it was to her little mother she talked.

And two weeks later she was on her way to the Land of Adventure.

* * *

Janet's knees were shaking, and her arms were covered with goose pimples. For the fiftieth time she took out her vanity and powdered her straight little nose and pulled her rakish little hat farther down over a red-brown eye.

The train was pulling into Grand Central station: New York City!

Across the aisle from Janet sat a charming woman of middle age, amused, and with a young smile playing about her lips. She caught Janet's eye, just as she put both hands on her knees to keep them from shaking so hard. They both laughed. Janet broke the silence with a nervous little giggle.

"My knees act so funny. I—I guess I'm excited."

"Your first time in New York, dear?" The woman smiled, and reached for her own hat.

"Yes. Isn't it thrilling? I can't wait."

"Have you relatives to meet you?"

Janet laughed merrily.

"Not a soul, thank goodness! I shall be free as a bird to flutter where and when I please. Isn't that nicer than ever?"

The woman looked at her with an attempt to be severe, but laughed in spite of herself.

"Young lady, New York is a very wicked place."

Janet stiffened primly, her eyes mocking and her rosebud mouth in a shocked oval.

"Can I count on that, my dear? I'd hate to be disappointed. I thrive on sin. I'm a parson's daughter."

In the excitement of leaving the train, Janet's fellow traveler stayed by her side, determined at least to help the precocious little elf find a decent hotel.

It was raining torrents. Janet frowned, and could not hide her disappointment and chagrin. There wasn't a taxi to be found, and in an attempt to sound worldly she inquired in a lofty voice:

"Is it very far to the Astor? I hate street cars."

Her new-found friend looked her surprise.

"The Astor Hotel? Are you going to stop there? Why don't you pick out a quieter section—and a place more reasonable, my child?"

Janet tried to look as though she had millions. Her jet black head went a little higher.

"Oh, I wouldn't think of stopping so far from Times Square. My friend Esther tells me it is right in the heart of things. That is where I want to be. My funds are quite sufficient."

Mrs. Van Arden stifled a desire to laugh, and looked serious.

"Well, in that case, honey, you'll just have to take the shuttle over to Times Square from the station here. It's only a minute's ride. I'll show you where the black line is, and you can follow it."

Janet wanted to say "Thank you. I'm no child." But she was really a great deal more grateful for the stranger's interest than she would admit, even to herself.

Mrs. Van Arden held out a friendly hand.

"I'm going to give you my card, child, and I hope you will call me and let me know how you get along. Shall you work?"

Janet laughed again, merrily.

"Promise you won't think I'm wicked! I'm going on the stage."

Something in the youth and freshness of the over-confident little girl touched the kindly Mrs. Van Arden's heart deeply. She took her hand, and her voice was sweet and motherly.

"My dear, I am sure you can be just as good one place as another. Of course I don't think you are wicked. Some day I shall probably give a theater party and sit in a box and say quite proudly: 'Janet Mary James! Oh! She is an old, old friend of mine.' You won't forget me, then, will you?"

Janet smiled into Mrs. Van Arden's sparkling eyes.

"You're a good sport. I should say I won't forget you. Try me and see."

They parted, both sincerely hoping they would meet again.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By GEORGE McMANUS

The Theater

What is there in the air, the drinking water or the influence of heredity that makes Jamestown's young folks turn to the stage?

Talk with any Jamestown citizen and he can name you a group of former Jamestown folks who now are playing on the stage or who have some connection with the theater. And if inclination has any influence, then this list may be increased.

* * *

We take our typewriter in hand today to write a piece for the paper about the Jamestown Amusement Club, an aggregation of young amateurs, that lived up to its time by producing an amusing revue in the face of extremely hot weather recently.

It was the pleasure of this writer to sit in one night while the cast was making whoopee at a rehearsal and out of that experience came the idea that if the new little theater movement here can inspire half as much enthusiasm as was exhibited by the perspiring Jamestown stage toilers, its success is assured.

Despite the closeness of the air in the venerable Jamestown Opera House, the performers worked their heads off with as much "pep" and enthusiasm as if a first-night audience was in the theater. The way they toiled before the empty chairs these folks take their play-acting seriously.

* * *

Miss Leontine Jenks, who doubled with the violin and piano, and who has the ability and charm needed to go far in the entertaining profession and Bob Owens, Xenia, who needs no introduction to local people, directed the revue and scraped up a lot of talent for the production.

Gene Gordon is an entertainer in the Bill Horner type, hard-working, with an easy stage presence and a fairly good voice. Max Conklin has a voice well above the average and a professional air that helps put him across while nobody ever clowned harder or more successfully than Bob Moorman or seemed to enjoy himself more while he was doing it. Mildred Mason, the "lady called Lou", was another Xenian who helped the Jamestown club get started right but these Jamestown players don't need much outside help to put over a good show.

* * *

If you've never seen Raymond Hitchcock, famed stage comedian, now's your chance. He's at the Orphium Thursday night with Blanche Mehaffey and Mack Swain in "The Tired Business Man", a real laugh producer. Over at the Bijou they are reviving "The Covered Wagon" Thursday afternoon and night for a one-day stand. This reviewer still believes this to be easily one of the finest pictures ever made and everybody who has never seen the movie should crowd in on this last chance. J. Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson and Ernest Torrence are in the cast.

Jean Arthur, young movie actress, has landed the feminine lead of Richard Dix's first movietone picture. She got the job over such stars as Pola Negri, Evelyn Brent, Fay Wray and others.

PUZZLES ALIENISTS

Woman Honest For Twenty Years, Faces Trial In Fraud Case.

Mrs. Lou C. Penn ington in court.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 19—Police and alienists are puzzled and Kentucky merchants, also puzzled, are suffering a $200,000 loss in one of the strangest cases the state has ever seen.

Its cause is a woman, Mrs. Lou C. Pennington, of Louisville, who has been arraigned in police court to answer to a score of warrants charging the utterance of worthless checks.

That's not unusual—many women have issued worthless checks before. But Mrs. Pennington has led an honest business life for more than twenty years. She had acted as purchasing agent for hundreds of individuals throughout Kentucky, was trusted by all, and extended unlimited credit by many. All thought her a woman of keen business wits.

Then something happened to Mrs. Pennington. Something snapped. In the course of a few weeks she wandered about, her mind a blur, purchasing thousands of dollars worth of goods on credit.

To her clients throughout the state the matronly buyer is said to have given pre-dated checks, telling them that by cash payment she could obtain huge discounts which she would share with tem.

Then Mrs. Pennington disappeared from her Louisville apartment, taking her nine-year-old daughter with her. For three weeks she was sought by detectives who finally found her in a sanitorium for the mentally ill near Louisville, where she had been taken by her son, an Akron, Ohio, doctor. She had been wandering aimlessly through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, for more than a week.

To the detective who arrested her, Mrs. Pennington attempted to sell stock in an imaginary Mexican company which had taken form in her mind while at the sanitorium.

Regaining her composure later, police say that she told them she was in a "blur." She declared that she had secreted enough money, in several banks, to meet all obligations. But she could not reveal the location of her accounts.

Insanity is to be the plea when Mrs. Pennington faces trial, it has been indicated.

I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best."—Earl C. Years of Service in MODEL T FORDS

Expenditure of few dollars may enable you to get thousands of miles from your old car

THE Model T Ford is still a great car. It led the motor industry for twenty years and it is used today by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service in city, town and country, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five more years and even longer at very small up-keep expense.

The cost of Model T parts and of necessary labor is unusually low because of established Ford policies.

The labor charge for tuning up the motor is only $1. This includes replacement of commutator case, brush and vibrator points if necessary. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon runs from $3 to $4. Overhauling carburetor, $1.50. Installing new pistons or connecting rods, $6. Tightening main bearings, $6. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have the motor and transmission completely overhauled.

The labor charge for replacing rear axle shaft, drive shaft pinion or drive gear is $5. All sockets and joints of front end can be tightened for $1.50.

The steering gear can be completely overhauled for a labor charge of $3.50. Muffler repaired for $1.

The labor charge for repainting the Coupe is $25. Sedan, $25. Touring Car, $20. Top deck of Coupe or Sedan can be replaced for a labor charge of $4.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of reconditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.

KONJOLA BRINGS GLORIOUS HEALTH SAYS XENIA MAN

Stomach Trouble and Kidney Pains Are Relieved; Gladly Indorses New Medicine

This surprising medical compound, Konjola, which the Konjola Man is explaining in person to large crowds daily at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, has not only become the sensation of this city, but is also the talk of cities and towns throughout this section. For instance, just a few days ago, Mr. E. F. Jones, 221 Dayton Avenue, Xenia, made the following statement about Konjola while talking with the Konjola Man:

MR. E. F. JONES

"I had been suffering for many years," said Mr. Jones, "trying first one thing and then another before I ever knew there was a medicine like Konjola, and now since I got this new compound, I am feeling better than I have in years and my health miseries are gone.

"I did not know what it was to enjoy a meal like other people without suffering agonies as soon as I finished. Quantities of gas formed in my stomach and bloated me up so much that I could hardly get my breath. This caused my heart to palpitate and flutter so much that at times, I thought it would stop beating. It seemed to me that none of the medicines I took for relief, ever helped me the least bit. My general health began to fail rapidly so that I never did feel normally. My appetite was so poor that I never sat down to a meal and had the desire to eat. My kidneys were finally affected and I became so weak that I had to be getting up at all hours of the night. It was impossible for me to enjoy a complete night's sleep. The next morning I would be tired and wornout. I tried all kinds of remedies and different tonics but I might as well have taken water.

"Finally a friend told me about Konjola and how it had helped him and so I decided to try it. Now I want to say that I have never regretted it since that day. I noticed a wonderful change coming over my entire system with every dose of the medicine. I am now able to sit down to a big meal and eat anything I want without suffering the least bit of pain afterward. Everything I eat agrees with me and all the ugly symptoms have disappeared. My general health is better than it has been in the last year and I feel years younger. Konjola stopped the night rising right away and kidneys are now well and strong. I enjoy good, wholesome sleep until the next morning. I think that Konjola is a wonderful medicine and I readily gave it my endorsement knowing that it is all and more than it is claimed to be."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given. —Adv.

CALLES WILL RULE TWO YEARS MORE

"SAVE AMUNDSEN" IS ORDER FROM MOSCOW

Soviet Official Spurs Search For Missing Explorer; Sweden Orders Airmen To Abandon Search.

MOSCOW, July 19. — "The Amundsen party must be saved!"

This order was wirelessed today to the Russian ice breakers Kranssin and Maligin by Serge Kameneff, assistant commissar for war, who is assisting the Nobile relief work on behalf of the Soviet government.

The whereabouts of the lost Amundsen party is not known, but the order was intended to spur the commanders of the two rescue ships to use the utmost endeavors to locate and save the missing men if they were alive and adrift on ice floes any place within the area possible for the steamers to reach.

"This world renowned scientist (Capt. Raold Amundsen) cannot be abandoned to the elements until every possibility of rescue has been exhausted," said Kameneff.

Chief hopes for possible rescue of the Amundsen group of six men —if they are still alive—is pinned upon the Maligin, sister ice breaker of the Krassin. The latter steamship is temporarily out of this race of mercy owing to the necessity to refuel.

A radiogram from the Maligin said the district southeast of Spitzbergen was being explored, but that the ship was encountering bad weather.

LONDON, July 19.—Swedish airmen who have been searching for Nobile expedition survivors in the Arctic have been ordered by the Swedish government to abandon their rescue work and return home, according to a Central News dispatch from Stockholm this afternoon.

MINE UNION ALLOWS DISTRICTS TO MAKE WAGE NEGOTIATIONS

Policy Committee Moves To Settle Coal Strike

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 19—The policy committee of United Mine Workers of America was on record today as authorizing officers of various districts of the miners national union to enter into wage negotiations with their respective operators with the view of settling the two-year-old bituminous coal strike upon any basis mutually satisfactory.

In a formal statement, climaxing a week of conferences here, John L. Lewis, international president of the miners' union, explained that the union was amending its policy for the purpose of coping with the depressed conditions in the bituminous coal industry.

The decision of the policy committee was a victory for Illinois miners who demanded they be released from the 1924 Jacksonville wage scale which the union has considered its front-line entrenchment.

The policy committee adopted the following resolutions:

1.—Resolved officers of respective districts comprising central competitive field and outlying bituminous districts be authorized to enter wage negotiations with their respective operators upon basis mutually satisfactory.

2.—That district representatives and officers of the international union shall co-operate in execution of this policy.

3.—That all district organizations be authorized to permit any coal company or any mine to employ all men it may require for maintenance, repairs, devolpment, construction or production of coal providing however, that such company agrees with district to pay existing wage schedules and carry out existing agreement temporarily until a district agreement is negotiated.

4.—That any agreement negotiated under this policy shall be submitted for ratification to district convention or referendum vote of respective district.

MARTIAL LAW FOLLOWS RIOT

HAVANA, July 19.—A state of virtual martial law prevails today at Santiago de Cuba following a fight between police and soldiers in which one policeman was killed and many were wounded on both sides.

The trouble began apparently when soldiers began jeering a police sergeant. In the fighting that followed missiles of all finds were used. Of the wounded soldiers and policemen one policeman is in serious condition and may die.

Mayor Arnaz ordered the commander of the military district to take charge of the city. All the policemen were ordered into the central station where they were put under military guard.

TEACHER DROWNS

TOLEDO, O., July 19.—The body of Howard R. Ham, 30, former Crauseon school teacher, had been recovered from the Maumee River here today. He drowned late yesterday while trying to recover a drifting rowboat, near shore. His body was recovered several hours later by police.

FAILS TO ENDORSE

COLUMBUS, O., July 19—Through action of a "secret committee of twenty-four," known as the non-partisan political advisory committee of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, that organization was on record today regarding its stand on the "three leading gubernatorial candidates for the Republican nomination."

The committee, of which Rev. E. J. Moore, superintendent of the league is a member, it was said refused to adopt a resolution endorsing Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, to the exclusion of Attorney General Turner, and Congressman James Begg.

According to officers of the league the "sub-rosa" committee was appointed last January at the annual meeting of the trustees, and all members and the trustees pledged to strict secrecy regarding the committee's membership.

SMITH WILL DEFEND DRY LAW POSITION; IS MISUNDERSTOOD

Governor Says He's Not In Favor Of Saloon

ALBANY, N. Y., July 19.—In his speech formally accepting the Democratic presidential nomination, Governor Al Smith will stress his stand on prohibition, emphasizing that he never has urged repeal of the eighteenth amendment but that he feels a proper modification on the Volstead law would do away with bootlegging and its attendant evils, according to his close friends.

The governor is said to feel that despite all he has said in the past, his views on prohibition are largely misunderstood by voters of the country because of statements issued from time to time in the past by his political enemies and various reform organizations.

There is one thing more than any other which arouses Governor Smith and that is to be represented as a friend of the saloon. Time without number, his advisers point out, the governor has declared in public speeches and statements that he is absolutely opposed to the return of the old-time saloon.

Only once since his nomination has the governor given away to his feelings and that was when he was pictured by William Allen White, Kansas editor, as a friend of the saloon. The governor has made up his mind, however, that he will not be drawn into an argument with anyone over prohibition until after he has stated his position on this subject in his notification speech.

WOMAN KILLED IN COLLISION

DAYTON, O., July 19.—One woman was instantly killed and six other persons were injured when a truck and an automobile collided head-on on the Dayton-Cincinnati Road near here early this morning.

Mrs. Clarence Weidler, 27, Rural Route 2, Franklin, was killed when the machine in which she was riding crashed head on into a truck of the Cincinnati Enquirer said to have been driven by Leonard Pettri, 31, of Cincinnati. Four others in her party were injured and are in Miami Valley Hospital here.

Elmer Sterling, 13 years, Park St., Columbus, who was riding with Pettri was cut and bruised and is being held at Miami Valley Hospital. The boy was said to have been hitch-hiking from Hamilton to his home at Columbus.

According to the story told police, Pettri had stopped his truck when the machine crashed into him. Pettri was headed northward and the automobile was driving south, it was said.

TILDEN DROPPED FROM DAVIS TEAM

Declare Articles For Papers Wreck Amateur Rights

PARIS, July 19.—William T. Tilden, 2nd, foremost figure in the world of lawn tennis during the modern generation, has been summarily dropped from the rolls of the American Davis Cup team.

Faced with charges, preferred by the amateur rules committee and the Davis Cup committee, Tilden was notified today that he had been removed overnight from the captaincy and virtually booted off the team on the eve of the inter-zone finals with Italy and so sudden was the action taken that it apparently came as a complete surprise not only to Tilden but also to Samuel H. Collom, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, and Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the Davis Cup committee.

Collom issued a formal statement in which he outlined the charges as emanating from articles Tilden wrote for the London Evening Standard during the Wimbledon championships. The article or articles were alleged to have dealt with the contemporaneous play, thus violating the provisions of the player-writer rule. Collom's statement added that the United States could not use a player in Davis Cup competition against whom "such charges were pending."

Wear, plainly discomfited by the turn of events, informed International News Service that he was cabling his resignation as chairman of the Davis Cup committee.

President Collom issued the following statement to the press:

"The amateur rules committee and the Davis Cup committee having preferred charges against William Tilden, II, for having violated amateur rules by writing current newspaper articles for pay or consideration covering the Wimbledon tournament, in which he was a competitor; and, whereas, it would be improper to retain as a member of the United States Davis Cup team any player against whom any such charges are pending, the United States Davis Cup committee withdraws Tilden from the competition."

Tilden issued the following detailed statement:

"I deny that the articles written for the London Evening Standard were a contemporaneous report of the tournament in which I was a competitor. I consider this a deliberate misinterpretation of my articles and an attempt to embarrass President Samuel H. Collom, of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, and Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the United States Davis Cup committee. Two of three of the disputed articles were published prior to the departure from the United States of Collom and Wear. One was fully discussed at a committee meeting at which Collom and Wear were present. No objection was raised by any person present.

"It seems very strange that the same article was so much worse after Wear and Collom were two days at sea. Once more the gentlemen in the United States are interpreting my motives and once more incorrectly I deeply regret the embarrassment to Collom and Wear as well as to the team, but I am glad to say that all feel there was no intention on my part to evade or violate the rules."

FOUR MINERS HURT IN UNION ATTACK

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., July 19.—Four non-union miners injured, three seriously, and four damage suits against Belmont County today was the result of Eastern Ohio's latest mine disturbance.

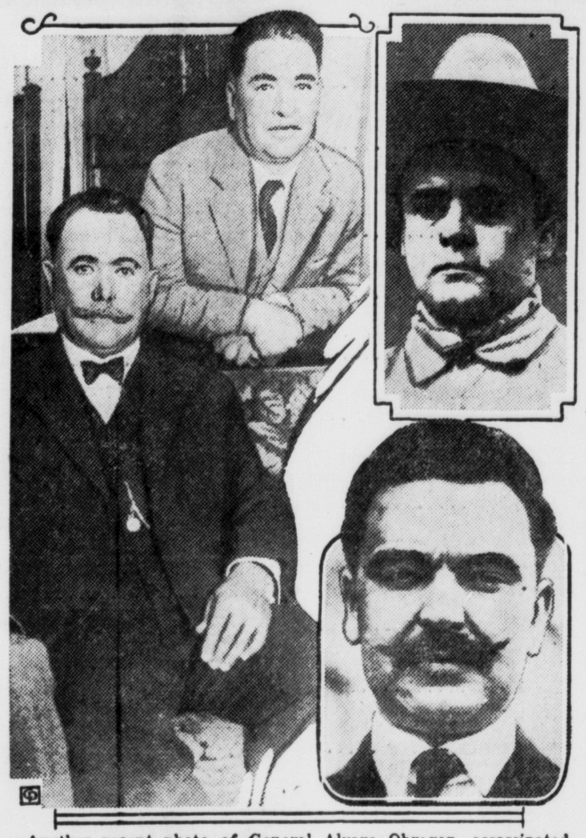

George White, Clavin White and C. J. Burley were hurt seriously and Paul Kinter was bruised when a mob of union sympathizers attacked the men as they drove by the Blaine mine near here, enroute to work at the Glen Robbin mine in Jefferson County, where all are employed.

Immediately following the attack attorneys for the men filed damage suits against the Belmont County commissioners totaling $5,000.

According to Kinter's report to authorities the mob consisted of about seventy-five men and women. No arrests were reported by the sheriff's office here.

The car which the men were driving was wrecked and dismantled.

HOME TRUSTEES ASK CREATION OF NEW EDUCATIONAL POSITION

A proposal to create a new office of superintendent and director of education at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans Home, was presented to the state board of control by trustees of the Home in Columbus Wednesday.

The trustees, in their request, named a salary of $2,000 a year to be paid out of the appropriation granted the Home by the last legislature and recommended the appointment to the position of Prof. Christian E. Burckel of the Collinwood, Cleveland, high school. Prof. Burckel has been acting in that capacity for a short time, the trustees said.

They also asked that Prof. W. S. Sackett, former superintendent of the Home schools, be appointed principal of the high school. The trustees who presented the proposal to the board of control are W. T. Amos of Sidney and Ralph H. Carroll of Cleveland. Among those who appeared in support of the proposition was Judge Edward Matthias of the Ohio Supreme Court, former commander of the United Spanish American War Veterans. The control board deferred action and asked for further information on the project.

Prof. Burckel came to the Home a month ago to assume the office of director of education, recreation, trades and discipline. Mrs. Burckel at the same time took over the position of welfare director and dean of women at the Home. Mr. Burckel announced a new system of education at the Home, by which the trades would be co-related with the high school courses and credits toward the high school degree would be given in the trade work. Four high school courses are to be offered under the new system he said at the time he came here: college preparatory, farming, trades and commercial.

ATLANTA CONVICTS FOILED IN DARING ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

ATLANTA, July 19.—Roy Gardner, notorious California mail robber, and Joe Urbaytis, of Toledo, Ohio, were in solitary confinement in federal prison today while a searching investigation was under way into their attempted escape late yesterday.

Both prisoners attempted to shoot their way out. Warden John W. Snook, declaring his belief that guns were smuggled into the prison in yarn shipments for use in the prison mills, closely questioned a dozen guards.

John W. Bunts, guard struck in the face by an iron bar as the prisoners made their dash was recovering. After covering two guards with guns the prisoners attempted to place a ladder at the stockade walls but were balked by Guard Hays on the wall.

Shots were exchanged and the prisoners, using Capt. Parker as cover, went back into the prison to take his keys from him. Parker, however, dashed at them. In the fighting Bunts was struck. Other guards rushed up and held the prisoners at bay with guns.

DETROIT, July 19.—The condition of George Souders, automobile race driver, seriously injured Sunday, was slightly improved today. He has regained consciousness.

MIDDLETOWN NEWSPAPERS CONSOLIDATE

Merger Of Journal And News-Signal Is Effected

Merger of The Middletown Journal and The Middletown News-Signal, both evening newspapers, was announced Thursday in Middletown.

By terms of the merger, The Middletown Publishing Co., publishers of The Middletown Journal, acquires the plant and property of The Middletown News-Signal, rival daily, and a new company, known as The News-Journal Publishing Company, has been formed to publish both papers.

J. A. Chew, Xenia, publisher of The Xenia Gazette, who has been president of The Middletown Publishing Co., is president of the new company. E. S. Myers, former editor of The Xenia Gazette, who has been publisher of The Middletown Journal since that paper was acquired by Xenia interests three years ago, will be publisher of both Middletown papers under the merger and is secretary and treasurer of the new company.

Both newspapers are now housed in their own modern plants, and each will be published from its own building in the future. The Sunday Journal will be a combination of the two week day issues and will be known as the Sunday News-Journal.

The consolidation of newspaper interests at Middletown, a city of 35,000 population, is in line with a general trend in the present day publishing business. Publishers, convinced that a greater service to the public can be effected through newspaper mergers, have entered into consolidation all over the country.

The Middletown merger is the second important Ohio newspaper consolidation in the last sixty days, the Springfield Sun having been taken over by former Governor James M. Cox of The Springfield News, within the last few weeks. Springfield is a city of 70,000.

Both Middletown newspapers have long and honorable histories back of them and the publishers have announced that in continuing their individual identities, policies on which the separate reputations have been built, will not be disturbed.

The News-Signal has been published by J. Q. Baker for more than forty years and it is this paper which gave the early newspaper training to former Governor James M. Cox, through whom the deal for the merger was effected. Mr. Baker is a brother-in-law of Mr. Cox.

THIRTEEN DIE FROM HEAT IN MANHATTAN

NEW YORK, July 19.—Thunderstorms were hoped for today to drive away the oppressive heat which has added thirteen more lives to the season's toll in the metropolitan area.

Eight of the new deaths were due to drowning, as men and women sought relief from the sun's rays at the beaches. Three persons died of heat prostration. One man, crazed by the atmosphere, killed himself.

Scores were prostrated as the mercury climbed steadily.

REPUBLICANS EXPECT TO SPEND $3,000,000 DURING CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, July 20—A Republican campaign budget of $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 was forecast today as National Chairman Hubert Work prepared to receive J. R. Nutt, of Cleveland, treasurer, to fix the campaign's fiscal policy.

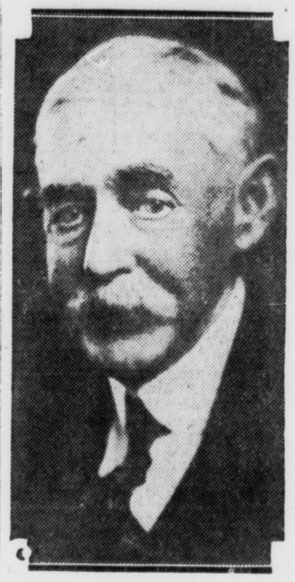

Chairman Work has indicated that no effort will be made to limit contributions so that requests for large sums from party multi-millionaires may be avoided.

Although Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee, is speeding toward the Pacific coast, his ideas are expected to be made known to the new national treasurer by Work.

Hoover, who insists upon systematic planning, even in his own household, believes that every expenditure of consequence should be carefully budgeted and a record kept of every outlay down to the last penny. Efficiency in spending is expected to be the Hoover policy of keeping down campaign costs.

Another important caller of Work was to be Mrs. Alvin T. Hurt, of Kentucky, vice chairman of the national committee. She arrived here to plan for a conference on July 24 of committeewomen from the eastern states.

HOOVER KIN DIES

C. D. Henry, above, father of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the Republican presidential nominee, is dead of heart trouble at his home in Placerville, Cal. Secretary and Mrs. Hoover were speeding westward to his bedside when death came.

HOOVER TO PRESENT HIS FARM PROGRAM IN ACCEPTING POST

ABOARD HOOVER SPECIAL, ENROUTE TO PALO ALTO, Calif. July 19.—Herbert Hoover will present a specific farm relief program to American agriculture in his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination at Palo Alto, Cal., August 11, it was learned today on good authority.

Hoover will pledge himself to devote his best administrative efforts toward solving the problem, show that he recognizes the agriculture as the basic industry of the country and propose immediate relief through the development of inland waterways, the adjustment of freight rates on farm products and the orderly marketing of surpluses with government aid, without invoking the equalization fee.

This much was revealed as the Hoover special rolled down out of the rockies and left the greenfields of the agricultural belt far behind. All through the wheat and corn belts, he demonstrated to visitors aboard his train an intimate knowledge of agricultural conditions and disposition to solve the farm problem.

Hoover had farm company clear across the western prairies. First, Governor John H. Hammill, of Iowa came aboard, talked farm problems to him and called him the next president of the United States. Then, Governor Adam McMullen, the Nebraska insurgent, joined the nominee. McMullen declared Hoover showed a "sympathetic attitude toward solving the farm problem" and predicted Nebraska would go safely Republican, along with the rest of the farm belt states.

A slightly different problem confronted Hoover once he entered the western mountain ranges. In Wyoming, Governor Frank D. Emerson told him of the cattle industry's problems, all close linked to those of the wheat and corn state. Emerson boarded the train last night at Cheyenne. The nominee was to hear more of his problem on reaching Ogden, about nine today where Governor Fred B. Balzar, of Utah, will meet him.

The candidate will travel across Nevada all afternoon and will reach Reno about 9 o'clock tonight. His new schedule will land him in Sacramento at 5:30 Friday morning, and in Oakland at 9 o'sclock. It will cross the bay, avoiding San Francisco, by the Dunbar bridge and take him into Palo Alto by 10:30 Friday morning.

This trip across the country, meeting people by the hundreds and conferring with the Republican leaders, had broken down much of the Hoover reserve. Late yesterday, he sauntered into the club car, where newspaper men were gathered and for the first time since leaving Washington, engaged them in friendly conversation. He explained why he is a shy and reticent man. It is because he dislikes talking when he has nothing to say.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS HAVE NEW MASTER

The Templars also are to select the next conclave city. Minneapolis, Boston and Miami are contesting for the honor. Minneapolis is favored.

OBREGONISTS HOPE TO KEEP PRESIDENT IN PRESENT OFFICE

Religious Fanaticism Is Blamed For Death Of General

MEXICO CITY, July 19. — Determined that the policies of the late President-Elect General Alvaro Obregon shall govern Mexico under the powerful guidance of President Calles, the Obregonist faction of the Mexican congress will meet today for the purpose of drawing up a resolution wnich, they claim, will legally permit Calles to remain in office for two years more.

The Obregonists intend to use the constitutional amendment, which was passed last year for the purpose of providing General Obregon with a six year tenure in office, as their legal vehicle for keeping Calles at the reins of the government.

They point out that the amendment as it now stands fails to make any mention of when it shall go into effect. They intend to rush through congress a transitory article to the amendment which will insert the date "November 30th, 1928."

As President Calles' term of office does not end until December 1, they say the amendment will thus apply to his present term and he will be able to continue as chief executive for two more years.

The Obregonists further intend to urge Calles to agree to stay on with the argument that his continuance would be viewed favorably by the United States.

They point out that the friendship of the United States was so valuable to Mexico that it should always be considered, even in internal affairs of Mexico. They stressed the point that Calles and Dwight Morrow, the American ambassador are closely allied by bonds of friendship and readily understand each other's point of view.

Meanwhile, the situation here continues patiently quiet, but there is a strong undercurrent of uneasiness. However, no outbreaks have been reported. Government troops continue to guard important points but there are indications that everything will be back to normal before long.

Eighteen suspects are under arrest. One of these, a woman, recognized the slayer of Obregon when brought to jail and revealed that his real name was Jose De Leon. None of those arrested is of any importance politically.

General Obregon's body is being borne back to his home state of Sonora aboard a special train. More than 100,000 persons lined the streets between the national palace and the railroad station to view the solemn funeral cortege.

MEXICO CITY, July 19.—A maddened fanatic inspired by religious fervor caused the death of President-Elect General Alvaro Obregon, according to President Plutarco Elias Calles.

In a signed statement, the president said the slayer had admitted that religious fervor was his only motive. The president added that authorities entrusted with the investigation of the case have secured much data "directly complicating clerical action."

DISPUTE MAY KEEP GAS FROM CITIES

COLUMBUS, O., July 19—Three Ohio towns—Payne, Antwerp and Paulding, Paulding County—will be without gas after July 22 unless the Schenck Leadford Oil and Gas Company, which serves the towns with fuel, and the "64 Gas Company," from which the former concern buys its gas, reach an agreement, it was learned here today from the public utilities commission.

The "64 Gas Company" has served notice that it will shut off the Schenck Leadford Oil and Gas Company's gas supply unless its bills are paid before next Saturday. The Schenck Leadford Oil and Gas Company was notified by the public utilities commission to immediately confer with its supplying company and reach an agreement and not cause the municipalities to suffer any inconveniences.

WILL REMOVE UNCONSCIOUS GIRL TO HER HOME

—Plans were started at Lake Plans were started at Lake County Memorial Hospital here today for the removal of Miss Helen Buschmann, 20, Lake Erie College student, who has been unconscious 186 days, to her home at Westfield, Mass., in fourteen days. Miss Buschmann has been in a comatose state since she suffered a fractured skull Jan. 15 last when struck by a motor bus at Mentor, Ohio.

Dr. V. N. Marsh, the coma girl's physician declared that although Miss Buschmann's condition had not changed materially in the last few weeks, he believed his patient's improvement warrents her being taken to her home.

Miss Buschmann has lost no weight while lying so long in bed and is physically normal, Dr. Marsh declared. She has been able to open her eyes at intervals and indicated by moving her head that she understands some questions put to her, the physician added. She has been able to take food voluntarily for nearly two months.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Emma Buschmann, who has been with her daughter here since the accident will accompany her home.

DEEP DISHAPPLE PIE

What Roosevelt Family Discusses At Luncheon Table.

Mrs. Richard Derby, left, and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, II.

By IDAH M'GLONE GIBSON

One of the most delightful luncheons it has been my good fortune to attend was at the home of Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Arriving a short time before the luncheon was served, Mrs. Roosevelt showed me through the trophy room, which just had been finished. There we were joined by Ethel Roosevelt, the dark-eyed only daughter of Theodore Roosevelt's second wife. Miss Roosevelt, shortly after I met her, became Mrs. Richard Derby.

As we walked through the rooms of the mansion we talked of—baseball!

When I remarked that the rain, which was falling, would spoil my afternoon at the Polo Grounds, Ethel asked quickly: "Do you know any baseball stars?"

Admired Ty Cobb

"Yes, I know John McGraw, Walter Johnson, Grover Alexander and Christy Mathewson," I was beginning to enumerate a few more when she interrupted: "Do you know Ty Cobb? I have always been curious about him. He seems to me to be a superior man as well as superior baseball player."

Just then the colored butler announced: "Luncheon is served," and we filed into the dining room, where we were joined by Mrs. Teddy, Jr., who had been commissioned a few days before to search for some plates in New York "suitable to serve deep dish apple pie," to a family that liked lots of cream.

She evidently was successful, for we each were served with a piece of delectable pie and handed great pitchers of cream from which to take as much as we wanted without the embarrassment of "saying when."

Mrs. Roosevelt's Sympathy

It was shortly after the Lusitania disaster, and the talk veered from baseball and apple pie to the death of Captain Archie Butt, who was military aide to the president. Mrs. Roosevelt paid him a beautiful tribute when she said: "I am afraid we did not appreciate him as we should. His fondness for society and dancing made many overlook his splendid sterling character. I have grieved so deeply for his mother, to whom he was devoted. Her loss must seem irreconcilable to her."

And so the talk continued as we sat in the beautifully appointed dining room, while the rain continued to come down in torrents. Death, sports and food were discussed around the Roosevelt table, just as they are at every other table in the land.

It was still raining when I had to leave and although there seemed to be numerous servants about the house—I counted three in the dining room, during luncheon— Mrs. Roosevelt said: "Ethel, go upstairs and get Mrs. Gibson's coat. She will have to hurry if she makes that train."

When her daughter came back with the wrap, without the slightest self-consciousness, my hostess helped me on with it, and stood on the steps of the colonial portico to wave me a smiling good-bye.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

XENIAN CERTIFIED BY PHARMACY BOARD

Emmett E. Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hardy, W. Market St., successfully passed his examination for certification as a pharmacist, M. N. Ford, secretary of the Ohio State Board of Pharmacy, announced to the board in session at Cedar Point, O., Thursday. The examinations were conducted in Columbus June 19, 20 and 21.

Hardy attended Ohio State University and is now employed at a wholesale drug store in Columbus. Eighty-four applicants in a class of 131 passed the pharmacy examination.

Thirty-eight out of fifty-five applicants who sought rating as assistant pharmacists, including William A. Erbaugh, Yellow Springs, were successful in the recent tests.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions thatresult from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE REJOICING OF GOD—My son, if thine heart be wise, my heart shall rejoice, even mine.—Prov. 23:15.

PENALTY FOR BEING FAMOUS

You read so much in the papers about extraordinary folk, that sometimes you may wilt a little under the impression that you are just an ordinary person, and in no wise notable.

This consciousness should not make you sad. There seems to be a certain glamor about being notable and eminent, but there certainly are compensations attached to the state of being ordinary. The ordinary American makes a pretty good living, has family contacts that are steady and comforting, and is endowed with enough brains and enterprise to carry on his own existence without too much friction.

Now, the extraordinary fellow is often just an ordinary man who has had certain "breaks" that put him in a conspicuous place on the ladder. He is quite a mark, and there are many out with their popguns, shooting at him. His ordinary mind is dizzy with the experience, and it's not so easy for him to get a reasonable amount of sleep as it was before he took the climb.

The ordinary man who has been placed by fortune in a conspicuous place is a worried individual. Maybe he struck oil, as an ordinary man sometimes does. Maybe he bought heavily of Radio or some other "good thing" when it was down, and sold out when it was high. Now, these "breaks" do not generally result from the exercise of brains or judgment. And they do impose upon the lucky fellow the responsibility of being quite rich. Often there are other responsibilities. Somebody thinks that because this young man has made a lot of money and looks serious about it, he ought to be made a cabinet member, a senator, or a diplomat. Well, can you imagine the plight of that ordinary man?

Then there is the genuinely extraordinary man, with an extraordinary mind. He probably has a great imagination and a keen sensibility. He is delicately organized, psychologically and spirituality, and probably physically also. This roughly organized world hurts him. He suffers from fears and fancied slights. He thinks people do not like him, or he worries lest he be misunderstood. He is like a man without any epidermis, trying to work in a flour mill. Everything hurts him, because his environment was made by and for ordinary folk.

Nietzsche was a man of giant intellect, but the world he lived in hurt him so that he fled to a lonely place to escape human contacts. Beethoven suffered spiritual torment all his life, because he could find no place in this ordinary world where he could feel at home. Poe was a constant mourner, and Byron's life was tragedy. Lamb and Goldsmith lived in misery because they could not talk the language of their time and place.

After all, there is much to be thankful for if one is only ordinary. For this is an ordinary man's world.

One man carries $4,500,000 insurance and fifty others a million. They flatter themselves.

Experience is a fairly good teacher, but her pupils usually need a post graduate course.

The Way of the World

WOMEN AND VOTES

The late Theodore Roosevelt used to say, in the days before woman suffrage, that women undoubtedly had the right to vote, but he doubted whether they wanted to vote. Apparently he was partly right. Thousands upon thousands of women care nothing about the right to vote and never exercise the privilege. In 1924 there were 120 women delegates to the national Republican convention. This year there were but 64. Are women taking a decreasing rather than an increasing interest in public affairs and in voting?

* * *

HAVE WOMEN HELPED?

No thoughtful person would care to dispute woman's clear right to vote and participate in public affairs in every way. And yet, since women have had the ballot, it is not possible to say that they have had much apparent effect on the conduct of government or that they have changed much the character and characteristics of office holders. They have increased the numbers of ballots to be counted and have raised the cost of elections. They have made a few interesting speeches. Laws are apparently no worse or no better. No great reforms have come into being which, in all probability, would not have come into being anyway.

* * *

IN INDIA

It is said that at the time of the great fair at Madras, India, beggars lined the road for two and one-half miles, sitting shoulder to shoulder. And they had assistants who stood by them and asked for alms. Some deep thinking and some sound philosophy have come out of India and the rest of the Far East. The contribution of Oriental life to human kind is immense. But isn't one of the real tests of civilization what it is able to do for the rank and file of the people?

ONE HABIT

If you have any doubt about the continuing power of a habit, you may be interested to know that burned or partly burned cigarets are tossed away by smokers in the United States at the rate of 170,000 a minute. That amounts to 90,000,000,000 a year. Cigaret prices differ, but at the rate of the cheapest that amounts to qiute a bit of money.

SINCERITY

Sincerity is not something that can be taken on and put off. To the wise observer no pretense can be a substitute for sincerity. You believe in a man or you don't. What he says to you has less effect than he supposes. Sincerity communicates itself by means other than words.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 19.—Incidentally, Thornton Wilder wrote his sensational best seller, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," which has a Peruvian locale, without ever having been in Peru. While he was writing it he asked a traveler if the Andes mountains were visible from Lima, capital of Peru. When informed that they were not, he was much disappointed. Nevertheless, in his novel he has the Andes visible from Lima!

Charlie Chapin, probably the greatest city editor any New York newspaper ever had, murdered his wife and was sent to Sing Sing for life. Influential friends of his recently sought to obtain a pardon for him. Chapin opposed their efforts. He is editor of the prison paper and prison gardener.

"Please don't bother," he told those who wanted him freed. "I am old now, and I would miss my gardens. Please let me stay here."

New York is all contrasts and contradictions. At East river and Fifty-second streets, in a block where tenement dwellings may be obtained for $30 a month, the world's tallest apartment building is being erected. The apartments will rent for from $200 to $1,000 a month. Sutton place, in the shadow of Queensboro bridge, and within sight of the city prison, on Welfare island, is rapidly being captured from slum dwellers by Social Registerites.

It is a social error to ask a New York girl if she works. To be proper one must ask, "Do you go to business?"

What do you want to know bout New York? Ask C. K., 2200 Times Building, New York, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Chicago Chatter

BY IONE QUINBY

CHICAGO, July 17. — Divorcing a husband doesn't necessarily mean divorcing his family. Mrs. Mary Weir Logan, who married Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., ten minutes after she shook off her first marital shackles in Reno, was given congratulatory parties by her first husband's family in Chicago.

The new Mrs. Vanderbilt's most intimate friends is her former husband's divorced sister-in-law, and she is on exceptionally good terms with her ex-mother-in-law. General good will exists in the entire Logan family despite several separations and divorces, and the progeny of the family continually are visiting their ex-aunties. It would seem life is being taken philosophically in metropolitan circles.

Also Mrs. Helen Brosius Logan served as bridesmaid recently in a family wedding party in which her ex-husband was best man. The ex-sisters-in-law were said to be present at the wedding of the girl who — if they hadn't just been divorced— would have been their new sister-in-law.

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and her ex-husband, Harold, have gone to the same family reunions and holiday parties. Another instance of modern harmony ex-familia is that of a well-known Chicago artist who got his first big commission painting his wife's frst husband. The commission put the artist and his wife on easy street. Anyhow, it took them out of a rather dingy top floor, one room apartment and transported them to an apartment of good lights and a sunken bathtub.

The funniest instance I ever heard of in regard to ex-relations was when a Red Cap, over at the LaSalle street station, insisted upon basking in the limelight of his famous ex-brother-in-law, Marty Durkin. The Red Cap stopped me one day when I was over there meeting Mary Pickford on the Twentieth Century.

"Say, Miss Reporter," he said, when the last Mary Pickford fan had disappeared. "I c'n give you a better story than that. I c'n give you the lowdown on Marty Durkin when he lived with his first wife. Do you know who I am? Well," puffing out his chest, "I'm Marty's brother-in-law by his first divorced wife." Marty was on trial for killing a federal officer and for stealing innumerable automobiles. He got thirty-five years in Joliet penitentiary.

The champion endurance strap hanger has been found. He lives away out in the northern section of the city, and says he has hung into a strap every day for 50 years, three hours a day, barring Sundays. He began back in the days of the horse car, and still is going strong.

Chicagoans like atmosphere and they'll pay for it even if it's faked. I have a Russian sister-in-law who came to Chicago for the first time, four years ago. I thought it would be nice to take her to a certain Russian tearoom. Before we left she confided to me that the waiters were all French and Italian, the decorations German and the cigaret girls' costumes Dutch. The only Russian thing about it was the tea served with rum drops.

Another W-reckless Speeding Problem—

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

HAIR IS THE CROWNING GLORY

I do not believe there is any woman who has not a secret pride in the texture, thickness and beauty of her hair. And if I am wrong, and there is, this little article will, I hope, help her back to the self-confidence which beautiful hair instills.

Really beautiful hair, and its beauty may be in abundance, texture, color or all three, is quite capable of redeeming many a plain face and lending definite attraction to an otherwise unbeautiful person.

Before we go further in the matter I want to warn you of the dangers of a carelessly wielded brush. I know, as we all do, the great American dictum of 100 strokes of the hair brush every day. And I believe in it too, but I modify my advice on this matter by cautioning you against "tearing" at your hair with rough bristles in an unskilled and usually impatient hand.

New hair is light and fragile and quite easily ripped from the scalp by vigorous brushing.

Treat your hair gently. It deserves at least that much consideration from you.

The first office of a hair brush is to spread the natural satiny gloss, which is, in itself, hair beauty. Secondly, it is useful in removing dust, dirt and dandruff which is flying loose through the hair itself.

I strongly advocate the use of military brushes for this purpose, for they insure even, gentle, distributed pressure, and never injure either the scalp or the young hair growing out.

Wire hair brushes, now practically obsolete, I am thankful to know, are barbarous instruments certain to irritate and injure the scalp in time, and decidedly inimical to the growth and health of the hair.

Weather, too, generally affects the condition of a woman's hair. It is interesting to know that California women are famous for their exceedingly beautiful hair, abundant, glossy and supple. This undoubtedly accountable to the mild and favorable climate. Severe cold is always inimical to the growth and beauty of the hair.

There are, however, certain practical precautions, which, followed faithfully, will speedily develop the beauty and growth of your hair.

MENU HINT

Get a fairly thick steak to broil, an inch and a half or so. Any steak that is left over may be used to make a pie or ground up and made into hash or sandwiches, or various other ways. If you are not sure about the tenderness of the steak, soak it for an hour in French dressing or rub olive oil in on both sides before you broil it.

Green Corn Stuffed Cucumbers
Berry Ice Cream Cake

Today's Recipes

Broiled Steak—Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and place near the flame, so that the meat sears quickly. Turn often. It is the quick cooking on first one side and then the other, causing the juices to run back and forth along the sinews which makes for flavor.

French Fried Potatoes—Peel potatoes and cut in strips. Soak in cold water for at least an hour. Dry on a cloth and fry in deep fat until a golden brown.

Stuffed Cucumbers—Peel cucumbers, cut in halves lengthwise. Remove pulp and chop. Mix pulp with an equal amount of grated pineapple. Sprinkle salt in cucumber cases, fill with stuffing and serve with French or mayonnaise dressing, according to taste.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 19. —The public never pays much attention to anybody but the heads of the two tickets, and their running mates, in a "presidential year."

Candidates for such one-horse jobs as senators' and representatives' amount to mighty little in the average voter's estimation.

And yet they're pretty important jobs—not only to the chaps who are running for them, but from the standpoint of the big party organizations. A president with congress "agin" him is in a middling unpleasant fix. All his policies are tied up tight. His pet appointments are apt to be turned down. He's bothered by investigations. He's played horse with, generally.

President Coolidge has been situated more or less like this ever since he's been in office.

He's had a real majority back of him in the house of representatives, but in the senate only a "paper" one. Actually, there have been three senate groups, and whenever the Democrats and "progressives" have combined, they've had the administration beaten. True, some of the senate Democrats are Republicans under their veneer, and occasionally they've flopped over to the president's side and helped him, which has taken part of the curse off.

Still, it hasn't been a satisfactory line-up to orthodox "G. O. P." -ites.

What the Herbert Hoover folks are preparing to do now is to move heaven and earth to get their man into the White House with all the congressional trimmings.

Anything less will be only a fractional victory, whichever side wins it.

The rank and file of the electorate probably will count it as out-and-out Republican triumph if Hoover's vote tops Al's, or an open-and-shut "k. o." in Smith's favor if he gets more ballots than Herbert does. The politicians will reserve their decision until they've totted up the results from all the congressional districts.

The fact is, it looks as if it would be extraordinarily difficult for either Hoover or Smith to take over the presidency with a clear majority in both houses of congress back of him.

Among the representatives perhaps.

They're all elected at once, and a land-slide can do wonders in their branch.

But the senate?—with only a third of its members' terms expiring at a clatter—that's different. First, you have to deduct the two-thirds of holdovers. Then you have to deduct all the rest from states where a nomination's equivalent to an election. It doesn't leave many to jigger with.

Moreover, if Hoover wins there are bound to be quite a few so-called Republican senators who won't be pro-Hoover republicans. Or, if Al wins, it's equally certain that a number of so-called Democrats won't be pro-Smith Democrats.

Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, for instance—you can't imagine him as supporting many Hoover policies. Or Senator Heflin of Alabama!—can you think of him as voting to sustain Al Smith, on a veto?

And there are others — both ways.

In one respect, Al might be at an advantage over Herbert.

As governor of New York, Smith's thoroughly accustomed to dealing with an adverse legislature. However, our national efficiency expert par excellence, mightn't have much patience with sand in the governmental bearings —and it profits a president mighty little to be on continual bad terms with congress.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

LOVERS' QUARREL

We are apt to laugh at a lovers' quarrel and think them of no account. But many a life has been ruined by an argument over what was probably of no account at first, but which was made serious by both parties being too proud to acknowledge they were in the wrong. One of our readers is worried by a situation which she can see is going to lead to misery for three persons and in which she sees no way out.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I do need your advice quickly, and it is all about my boy friend and I having a terrible quarrel last year. To spite him I was engaged to another man. I could not go through with it and broke the engagement. Now two months ago I heard that the fellow I loved was to marry another girl. Today he met me on the street and made the remark that I was too weak to go through with my plans but he wasn't, though he still loves me and at times hates the other girl.

"They are to be married next week. What will I do If he loved her I would never think of ruining their happiness, but don't you see he is doing the other girl wrong? I'll admit I do love him, still I may learn to forget while the other girl never could, if he did the wrong he is about to do. VIOLET."

I hardly see what you can do about it, Violet. Probably the girl he is to marry wouldn't believe you if you did tell her the circumstances. I think, of course, that you showed the strength in not marying a man you did not love, and he is the weak one. Maybe if you threatened to tell the girl that he told you that he didn't love her, but prefers you, it might do some good. It certainly is too bad to let your quarrel go so far. And then, of course, there is the chance that he really loves the girl he is to marry and everything will come out all right.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl 14 and go with a boy 19. I love him very much and I think he loves me. He sometimes gets drunk, but never when he is with me. He got fresh once and asked me to do some very disgraceful thing. He gambles and usually wins. Please don't ask me to give him up, Mrs. Lee. Do you think he will give up drinking and gambling if he loves me? MISS H."

Probably not, as he has made no move to do so, so far.

HAS ALL THE VICES

A recently appointed vicar, in his first sermon, spoke severely against betting. After the sermon was over a parishioner told the clergyman that one of the wealthiest members of his congregation was a notorious gambler. The vicar, not wishing to begin badly, approached the rich man after the service, and said:

"I'm afraid I must have offended you today, but——"

"Don't mention it," was the answer. "It's a mighty bad sermon that doesn't hit me somewhere."

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet For Children"

IF YOU SKIP THIS—!

My Dear Followers:

Please do not depend upon answers from me for conditions that should have the immediate personal attention of a physician, and do not depend on the column for such advice, for even though your questions can be answered in the column, and answered immediately, it is at least four weeks before the answer can appear.

My Diet and Health column is a syndicated feature appearing all over the United States and Canada, and is written and sent out from New York. This means it has to be written four weeks in advance. The column creates great interest wherever it appears, and its combined mail from the different places is enormous. In order to be able to handle the mail and be helpful to you, we have formulated the following rules, and unless they are complied with, your letters cannot receive attention.

1. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. They will be forwarded to my New York office. Sign your name as evidence of good faith; it will not be used in any way. (When I answer you in the column, I use one initial.)

2. Write legibly and with a pen —if your handwriting is not clear, get someone to write for you, or use a typewriter. Do not write more than 200 words. Remember the enormous number of letters I get.

3. When you ask for material which we offer in the column from time to time, you must enclose a large-sized, self-addressed stamped envelope (s. a. s. e.) and two cents. The address must include your full name, street and number, town and state. (Do not simply write "City," for we cannot tell which city it is.) The booklet on Petersizing—gaining and reducing—is the only one for which you must include ten cents in coin extra. (Only one reducing and gaining pamphlet will be sent to a letter.)

4. Do not ask for diagnosis or individual treatment; I am not in private practice in any way. Your questions will be answered in the column as soon as possible if they are of general interest and can be answered in a newspaper column. Watch the daily articles for something similar to the questions you want discussed, and consider yourself answered when you see them, whether your initials are appended or not. I must answer questions collectively many times in order to save time and space.

5. Allow at least three weeks to lapse before thinking your request for material has gone astray or is not answered because you have not followed the rules. Allow a much longer time for an answer to appear in the column.

Don't forget to enclose the s. a. s. e. and two cents with your request for any material, and the additional ten cents in coin if you desire the booklet on gaining and reducing. If you ask for more than one article, better send a large and double-stamped envelope. I shall run these rules at stated times to remind you and to keep the newcomers in line.

Your message telling me how much you enjoy the column and how much benefit you derive from it, are an inspiration to me and to the followers, and make our work happier and therefore more helpful. So I feel like adding a last rule. Save some of your 200 words to continue this practice!

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed stamped envelope and two cents in coin for each article to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, ten cents in coin with fully s. a. s. e. must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of this paper.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

Alexander Graham Bell once told me that if he had been a trained electrical engineer, he would never have invented the telephone. The whole mechanism of a phone is so simple that a more experienced man would have said:

"No use to try that. It's so obvious that if it would work, somebody would have done it long ago."

I imagine that much the same thing happens in every line of business. Just recently a real estate man told me that he had wondered for years why an important corner in his town wasn't bought. The price seemed low enough, but nobody was interested in picking it up. Everybody thought there must be something wrong with it, or else somebody would buy it. Finally this man decided to buy it. Then the spell was broken. Others, after hearing that the corner had changed hands, decided that there was nothing wrong with it after all. So many wanted it then that the price soon doubled. Everybody had neglected a chance for quick profits because the thing looked too easy.

INDOOR DIVERSION

Tommy had two presents at the same time — one a diary, which he kept very carefully for awhile, and the other a pea-shooting pop-gun, which he fired indiscriminately on all occasions.

One day his mother found the following terse record in the diary: "Monday cold and sloppy. Tuesday cold and sloppy. Wednesday cold and sloppy — shot Grandma."

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

Two Little Lovers In Green

"Wife and I looked in the direction from whence the voice came and there upon a bough right above the cool water sat two birds. They were much smaller than either Toco or the Parrot in fact they were not a great deal larger than were we ourselves—but they wore a coat of bright grass-green trimmed with blue and black. They were pretty birds and they were sitting so close together that their feathers were all mixed up. One could hardly tell which belonged to who. The sweet voice continued: "'We love each other so very much that we have no time to spend on any one else at all. But we do not hate any one; we think of every one as our friend and when we meet a stranger we like him right away. You seem like very nice little birds. We are sorry we cannot visit with you, we might learn many things, but we have so much to say to each other that we cannot spare a moment. You will excuse us, wont you?'

"At this strange speech we Bobolinks could not find a word to say. We could only look in surprise at two birds who could talk only to each other. They must have been separated a long while to find each other so interesting that they couldn't even chat for a moment with strangers. We didn't mean to listen, but we couldn't help it. Before we could fly away, and just as though we were not around, the two green birds continued their conversation. And this is all they said:—

"'I love you, dear,' this from the one who had spoken with us.

"'And I love you. How wonderful you are, so brave and so loyal!'

"'There is no bird in all the world as fair as you; you have a lovely figure, my dear, so plump, and your feathers every one of them is as soft as down. I would rather snuggle here by your side than do anything else I could think of.'

"'It makes me very happy to hear you say that any darling husband, for I know that if anything should ever happen to you I should just curl up and die. Don't you remember how Aunt Green-Tail felt when Uncle Black-Collar met with that accident that cost him his life? Why she wouldn't eat a thing, not one of us could coax her to take even a drink and she sat upon the branch where they had so often perched together and just drooped and drooped and drooped! Poor Auntie grew thinner and thinner and one morning when we went to see her she wasn't on the perch at all. She had grown too weak to hold on and had fallen to the ground. There we found her and we knew that she was happy, for she had gone to join Uncle Black-Collar. We wept and covered her with leaves. That is what would happen to me, dear, if you should leave me. You will be careful not to meet with an accident won't you?'

"'Of course, wifie. Don't worry your dear little head about that. I love you.'

"At that point the conversation began all over again. But wifie and I had heard about all of that silly talk that we cared to. No mates are more affectionate than Bobolinks but we don't talk about our love all the time. We believe actions speak louder than words. So Mrs. Bob and I hurried off as fast as our wings would carry us, and for all we know those Love Birds are loving yet!"

Harry G. Leslie, above, as he is now; below, when a football star.

By H. C. LIGHT
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 19. — Fame on the football field is usually fleeting, but Harry G. Leslie, the Republican party's candidate for governor of Indiana, owes much of his present popularity to the record he made as an athlete at Purdue University, his Alma Mater, some twenty-five years ago. And if he plays the political game as he played football against Purdue's traditional rivals in those early days of gridiron sport in the middle west, it will be very difficult to halt him in his race for the gubernatorial mansion at Indianapolis.

"Skillet," as he was called, was about everything that one man could be in sports at Purdue during his college career. He played end and halfback on the varsity eleven for four years, first base position on the varsity baseball team, and served as Purdue's first athletic director in the days when students managed the athletic affairs at the university. He was class president in his junior and senior years, and is perhaps the only college graduate in the country who bears the distinction of having been president of two graduating classes.

Won Fame On Gridiron

This is how it happened. "Skillet" was a member of the Purdue football squad that figured in the Big Four railroad wreck at Indianapolis on October 31, 1903, when sixteen members on the squad were killed. The first section of the Purdue special train to the annual game with Indiana university, at the state capital, collided with a string of coal cars, and the football players, riding in a light coach immediately behind the locomotive were the worst sufferers. Leslie was given up for dead, but, displaying the same fighting spirit that made him a terror on the gridiron, he proceeded to ignore the doctors' pronouncement, and after passing thirty-eight weeks in a hospital, got well. He still bears the scars of his injury.

His misfortune set him back one year in his graduation from Purdue. He had been a member of the class of 1904, but was compelled to postpone his graduation until June 1905. The '04 class refused to elect another president, voting that the popular football hero should continue to bear the honor, although he did not receive his diploma in 1904. Then the class of 1905 adopted him and made him its president. The university records show him as president of both graduating classes.

Many tales are told of Leslie's prowess on the gridiron and the diamond. More than one Purdue football victory was the direct result of his determination to win, and his skill in advancing the ball. And in baseball, more than once a timely hit by "Skillet" brought victory to his team.

In the years that have elapsed since then, Leslie has put aside athletics, but has never lost one bit of his interest in sports, and today he is serving as alumni secretary at Purdue, a position that has much to do with stimulating alumni interest in Purdue teams. He is 50 and has served as town clerk of West Lafayette, treasurer of Tippecanoe County and speaker of the house of representatives in the Indiana general assembly. He has also been United States commissioner in the Lafayette district.

The housewives of West Lafayette gave him his start in politics. He worked as a delivery boy for a grocery while attending high school and decided to run for town clerk. He had been so courteous to the women to whom he delivered groceries that they lined up their husbands in his behalf and the contest was a walkaway for the high school lad.

Leslie, in addition to being a former athlete of renown, also is a lawyer and a dirt farmer, as he owns and operates a corn belt farm in Warren County which adjoins Tippecanoe County on the west. He is married and his family consists of a wife and three sons, the eldest being 14.

MRS. CORDLE'S DAUGHTER LIKE A DIFFERENT GIRL

Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

DAUGHTER OF MRS. G. H. CORDLE
833 Hazel St., Macon, Georgia

Macon, Ga.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel much relieved and I am giving it to my daughter, too. At twelve years of age she was so pale that even her lips had no color. She couldn't hold out to do any work to amount to anything. I gave her the Vegetable Compound and now at 13 years of age she is like a different girl. We are willing for you to use these facts for a testimonial as we cannot praise the Vegetable Compound too much. We will continue to take it and tell of its wonderful value."—Mrs. G. H. Cordle, 833 Hazel Street, Macon, Georgia.

Will Answer Letters

"I am a young mother, eighteen years of age. From early girlhood I suffered terribly because of a run-down condition. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it would help me, as she was worried. I did, and now I feel fine. After suffering for five years like I did and then taking nothing but the Vegetable Compound, you may be sure I am recommending it to others. I am willing for you to use anything I say as a testimonial and I will answer letters from any woman wanting to know about the medicine."—Mrs. Dewey Moore, 827 Broderick St., Columbus, Ohio.

PRISONER ESCAPES FROM COUNTY JAIL WEDNESDAY NIGHT

William Cummings, this city, serving out a fine of $50 and costs and sentence of sixty days imposed by Mayor John W. Prugh July 5 for assault, walked away from the County Jail shortly after 6 o'clock Wednesday night, Sheriff Ohmer Tate announced Thursday.

Since his incarceration in jail, Sheriff Tate declared he has been permitting Cummings, accompanied by a federal prisoner, on three different evenings to empty garbage in the rear of the jail.

Cummings trailed along behind the federal prisoner Wednesday night and when they reached the gate in the rear of the garage, Cummings made his get-away while his fellow prisoner was not looking.

The escape was reported to Sheriff Tate several minutes later but despite a thorough search of the city, which lasted four hours, Cummings could not be found. Sheriff Tate believes he has left the city.

Cummings was committed to jail by Mayor Prugh after pleading guilty to assaulting his wife, Nettie, who filed the affidavit against her husband.

Previous to his arrest on this charge, Cummings had been convicted in Common Pleas Court of a statutory offense and sentenced to Ohio State Penitentiary. The Greene County Court of Appeals reversed the conviction because of the trial court's alleged error in a charge to the jury, and the case was remanded for re-trial. Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall subsequently nolled the case and Cummings was discharged from custody after serving a considerable time in the state penitentiary while his case was being appealed.

BUY BOILER PUMP

Purchase of a boiler feed pump to be used in the Court House heating plant, from The Kelso-Wagner Co., Dayton, O., at a cost of $290, has been authorized by County Commissioners.

The Dayton firm will also repair the present vacuum pump used in connection with the heating plant.

TROOPERS ENJOY TARGET PRACTICE

CAMP PERRY, O., July 19.—Ohio National Guard troops continued warfare training today with target practice on a new range located a mile and one-half from the camp's headquarters.

Motor trucks transport the troops to the new field of action where machine guns, one pounders and trench mortars "barked" nearly all day yesterday.

A total of thirty officers and 130 enlisted men are to be selected from the state militia for duty at the Ohio state fair, Columbus in August, it was said. Of these five officers and forty men of the present encampment will be chosen.

Maj. E. F. Marks will receive applications for state fair duty July 24 and final selection will be made the next day.

CITY AUTHORIZES $11,000 BOND ISSUE TO BUY FIRE TRUCK

By a vote of 3 to 2, City Commission, at a recess meeting Thursday noon, passed an ordinance authorizing a $11,000 bond issue to finance purchase of a new fire truck, having an auxiliary pumper unit, from the Seagrave Corp., Columbus, to increase the efficiency of the Xenia Fire Department.

Commissioners S. M. McKay, Karl Babb and E. E. Lighthiser voted favorably for the bond issue, but Commissioners John W. Prugh and Jacob Kany opposed it, contending a cheaper fire truck should be purchased.

The ordinance was up for its second reading at the regular meeting last Thursday night but action was deferred.

The Columbus firm submitted a bid of $12,500 for furnishing the truck, but concessions obtained by the commission reduced the actual purchase price to $11,000.

The bond issue is for ten years. Under the law, the bonds must first be offered for purchase to the interest and sinking fund trustees and then to the state industrial commission. Failing in this, the bonds will be offered at public sale.

BODY OF CARRANZA PASSES XENIA ON SPECIAL THURSDAY

A Pennsylvania special train carrying the body of Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexican good will flier, who lost his life when his plane crashed at the outset of a return flight to his homeland, passed through Xenia without stopping at 9 a. m. Thursday, en-route to Mexico from New York City.

Forty soldiers, members of Company 1, Tenth Infantry, Fort Hayes, paid tribute to the flyer during a thirty-minute stop-over of the train at Columbus at 6:30 a. m. Thursday. Arriving at Dayton, the train stopped for ten minutes Thursday morning. Officers of Wright Field and an air fleet met the train.

With Captain Rowan H. Greer in charge, an escort of seven officers placed a wreath on the bier of the flyer. At the same time a fleet of planes was to pass over the funeral train in honor of the dead flyer.

Similar honors are to be extended in every city through which the train passes where federal troops are stationed.

AUTOIST HURT WHEN CAR HITS VIADUCT

A man who gave the name of Bowen, a Springfield shoe merchant, escaped serious injury when his automobile crashed into the north abutment of the Pennsylvania Railroad viaduct over the Springfield Pike south of Old Town about 9:30 Wednesday night.

Bowen said that he believed he had fallen asleep at the wheel, and he failed to negotiate the turn in the pike under the viaduct. The machine was badly damaged. Bowen suffered a bruise on the head and cuts. He was picked up and taken into Springfield by passersby and the car was later removed to a Yellow Springs garage. Bowen said that he was returning from Cincinnati when the crash occurred.

PEGGY'S TO WED ANOTHER TITLE

PICTURE HAT'S "THE THING"

Because the Hon. Elsie Mackay forgot to pay the premium on Captain Walter Hinchcliffe's life insurance before they started on their attempt to fly the Atlantic, the flier's widow, shown above with her two children, is now destitute. She has appealed to Lord Inchcape, Miss Mackay's father, to aid in taking care of her children.

Powder Means Much To Me

By Edna Wallace Hopper

The average woman considers the actress hopelessly ahead of her in the art of enhancing natural beauty.

The reason for this advantage is that the actress makes a business of attracting and she must "know how." It is her bread and butter.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

In the matter of powder, for instance my forty odd years on the stage have made me almost unbelievably exacting. I never considered the cost of my powder, so long as it pleased me.

After years of searching I found in France the powder that now adds the last touch to my careful toilette. It satisfies me because it has the one quality I have found in no other powder. That is, it blends so smoothly with the texture of my skin that my face never looks "made up" when I am off-stage.

Because it lends such natural bloom I call it my Youth Powder. In the immense quantities now produced I am able to offer it to women at a low price.

If your skin requires a clinging powder I advise using my Youth Powder in the Heavy Type. It also can be had in the Light Type. Both have the same delicate elusive fragrance.

BANK CONTESTS TAX OF CAPITAL STOCK

CINCINNATI, O., July 19—Contesting the constitutionality of Ohio's new banking law taxing the capital stock of banks, the Lincoln National Bank here today had been granted a temporary federal injunction against the Hamilton County treasurer who sought to enforce the law.

The Cincinnati banking house is the fourth banking concern in Ohio to protest the constitutionality of the law, three Columbus banks having filed similar protest suits.

"GOING TO WIN"

"General" Coxey Here On Campaign

"GENERAL" COXEY

More than thirty years ago General Jacob Schler Coxey, Sr., Massillon, O., led an army across country to Washington to demand the issue of legal tender currency secured by non-interest bearing public bonds with which to employ men out of work on good roads and other public improvements.

"Coxey's Army" was greeted with signs of "Keep Off the Grass." Recently General Coxey made another march on Washington for the same purpose, this time alone. Now he wants to return a third time—this time as the representative of the people of Ohio and is seeking the Republican nomination for the short term of U. S. Senator to succeed the late Senator Frank B. Willis.

The money issue is again the principal issue on which Coxey is making his campaign, but to it he has added a plank supporting an initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution, which he says is the most likely means to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

Although past seventy years of age, General Coxey is campaigning the state on these issues, travelling by automobile, shaking hands with the voters and passing out literature. In Xenia Wednesday afternoon he spent two hours putting out his campaign tracts and cards and called on local politicians. He is the same militant Coxey who led the army of the unemployed in spite of his years.

"I'm going to win", he said here Wednesday. "I met Senator Fess this morning in Yellow Springs and told him I was going to win". He said Senator Fess replied: "That's the right way to feel about it."

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Mary James, sweet as the blue grass in which she used to love to lie and dream the lazy Kentucky days away, has waited ever since she was a tiny girl for the opening of "The Letter." Her mother, little Mlle. Marcella Odette, French singer, died the night she was born, leaving two letters. One was to her father, Daniel Webster James, ignorant, self-styled, mountaineer parson, begging him to give Janet Mary to Mr. and Mrs. Pete Elmer, who took her in when she was friendless; the other to Janet, to be opened on her eighteenth birthday. Janet, who, with the life savings of the old mountaineers, was given a splendid education in a private school fifty miles from Big Creek, her home, has but one aim in life—Broadway and the stage. Auntie and Uncle Pete, with dread, wait for the next day; they know Janet will leave their mountains soon. To Janet, the minutes drag like hours, while she wonders what is in "The Letter" and what it will mean in her life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

* * *

CHAPTER II

Auntie Pete, stroking the black head that nestled in her homely apron, turned to her husband with a nod:

"Pete, go and git my old treasure box with the brass key, under the mattress in our room. Bring me the key. I will give her 'The Letter.'"

Now that the moment had actually arrived, Janet dreaded it.

Her throat tightened as she clutched "The Letter" in trembling hands. She looked at the pretty writing through eyes that blurred with tears.

"My—my poor little mother. Alone and dying—and thinking only of me."

Tears streamed down the cheeks of Auntie ePte. There was something uncanny in the moment. Pete shivered. It would seem like a voice from the grave, the lovely, singing voice of Marcella. He closed his eyes and saw her coming from the cellar, her arms filled with provisions from the store, her head thrown back singing—always singing.

Janet, her face white, clutched Auntie Pete's hand tightly. There was something ghostly about it to her, too. Auntie Pete rose and wiped her eyes.

Janet slowly tore the corner from the envelope, and took the closely-written sheets in trembling fingers.

"My precious Child:

"Today I have a feeling that the end is near. I know that you will be a little girl. But a certain feeling is in my sad heart that you will be left to grow up without your mama, mon petite cherie.

"It is a feeling of Fate. I cannot understand—but I know.

"When you open this letter you will be eighteen. It is just the age that I left my France to come to America. I was alone in France, except for one uncle. My parents had been dead two years.

"I wanted to be a singer, and a kind woman helped me to get to America. She felt I would be better there. But there were so many things happened to make me unhappy. I was not a success.

"I want you, my little Janet Mary, to take up where mama left off. I want you to be a good girl—and I am not afraid that you will not be. You will have a voice; of that I am sure. I feel you will sing like a little lark. I will be near to guide you. I want you to feel that your mama is always with you, darling....."

Janet was crying a scared little girl cry. She could scarcely see the words. Her tears fell and mottled the pages.

The letter told of the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer, and begged Janet to abide by their judgment and love and trust them always. There was but small mention of her father when Marcella wrote:

"Your father is young and he will not understand like they. His work is different. But you must not blame him. We all have our beliefs and he feels he is right."

Janet Mary sobbed. She could read between the lines of her little mother's suffering. She had not been happy in the mountains with her parson. There were messages for Janet alone—and so intimate were they that she felt she were talking to her mother. It became more personal with every line—a mother pouring out her heart to the child she would never see.

Marcella gave Janet the address of an uncle in France, Jules Mollinar, and told her to write and see if he were still alive.

Janet stumbled to her room and sat for an hour with the letter, reading and re-reading it, until she knew it by heart. Then she sat down and wrote to her uncle, giving him her mother's message, and telling a great deal about her life.

Auntie Pete looked in, say Janet with her head buried in her pillow, and knew that she was crying it all out. Like the understanding soul she had always been, she closed the door and left her to her sorrow.

A few weeks later Janet was beginning to despair of word from her uncle, when she was thrilled with a big letter of foreign postmark.

She opened it—and a check fell out with a typewritten letter. The check, from Uncle Jules on a New York bank, was for one thousand dollars. The letter was a friendly one, begging her to "accept the enclosed as a little start on your career."

Janet fell down on her knees beside her bed, moved to a prayer of thanks. But it was to her little mother she talked.

And two weeks later she was on her way to the Land of Adventure.

* * *

Janet's knees were shaking, and her arms were covered with goose pimples. For the fiftieth time she took out her vanity and powdered her straight little nose and pulled her rakish little hat farther down over a red-brown eye.

The train was pulling into Grand Central station. New York City!

Across the aisle from Janet sat a charming woman of middle age, amused, and with a young smile playing about her lips. She caught Janet's eye, just as she put both hands on her knees to keep them from shaking so hard. They both laughed. Janet broke the silence with a nervous little giggle.

"My knees act so funny. I—I guess I'm excited."

"Your first time in New York, dear?" The woman smiled, and reached for her own hat.

"Yes. Isn't it thrilling? I can't wait."

"Have you relatives to meet you?"

Janet laughed merrily.

"Not a soul, thank goodness! I shall be free as a bird to flutter where and when I please. Isn't that nicer than ever?"

The woman looked at her with an attempt to be severe, but laughed in spite of herself.

"Can I count on that, my dear? I'd hate to be disappointed. I thrive on sin. I'm a parson's daughter."

In the excitement of leaving the train, Janet's fellow traveler stayed by her side, determined at least to help the precocious little elf find a decent hotel.

It was raining torrents. Janet frowned, and could not hide her disappointment and chagrin. There wasn't a taxi to be found, and in an attempt to sound worldly she inquired in a lofty voice:

"Is it very far to the Astor? I hate street cars."

Her new-found friend looked her surprise.

"The Astor Hotel? Are you going to stop there? Why don't you pick out a quieter section—and a place more reasonable, my child?"

Janet tried to look as though she had millions. Her jet black head went a little higher.

"Oh, I wouldn't think of stopping so far from Times Square. My friend Esther tells me it is right in the heart of things. That is where I want to be. My funds are quite sufficient."

Mrs. Van Arden stifled a desire to laugh, and looked serious.

"Well, in that case, honey, you'll just have to take the shuttle over to Times Square from the station here. It's only a minute's ride. I'll show you where the black line is and you can follow it."

Janet wanted to say "Thank you. I'm no child." But she was really a great deal more grateful for the stranger's interest than she would admit, even to herself.

Mrs. Van Arden held out a friendly hand.

"I'm going to give you my card, child, and I hope you will call me and let me know how you get along. Shall you work?"

Janet laughed again, merrily.

"Promise you won't think I'm wicked! I'm going on the stage."

Something in the youth and freshness of the over-confident little girl touched the kindly Mrs. Van Arden's heart deeply. She took her hand, and her voice was sweet and motherly.

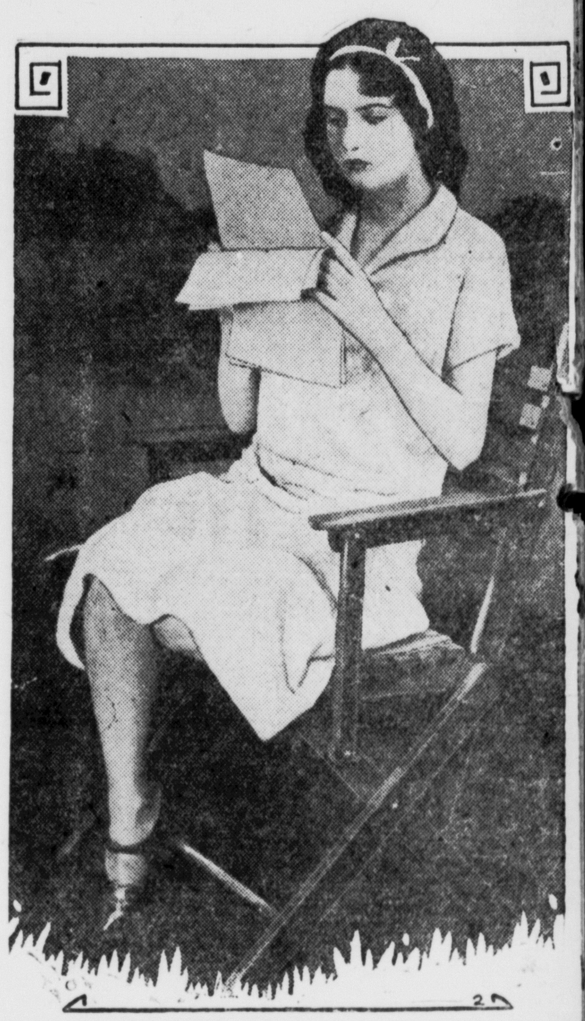

"My dear, I am sure you can be just as good one place as another. Of course I don't think you are wicked. Some day I shall probably give a theater party and sit in a box and say quite proudly: 'Janet Mary James! Oh! She is an old old friend of mine.' You won't forget me, then, will you?"

Janet smiled into Mrs. Van Arden's sparkling eyes.

"You're a good sport. I should say I won't forget you. Try me and see."

They parted, both sincerely hoping they would meet again.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By GEORGE McMANUS

The Theater

What is there in the air, the drinking water or the influence of heredity that makes Jamestown's young folks turn to the stage?

Talk with any Jamestown citizen and he can name you a group of former Jamestown folks who now are playing on the stage or who have some connection with the theater. And if inclination has any influence, then this list may be increased.

* * *

We take our typewriter in hand today to write a piece for the paper about the Jamestown Amusement Club, an aggregation of young amateurs, that lived up to its time by producing an amusing revue in the face of extremely hot weather recently.

It was the pleasure of this writer to sit in one night while nobody ever clowned harder or more successfully than Bob Moorman or seemed to enjoy himself more while he was doing it. Mildred Mason, the "lady called Lou", was another Xenian who helped the Jamestown club get started right but these Jamestown players don't need much outside help to put over a good show.

* * *

If you've never seen Raymond Hitchcock, famed stage comedian, now's your chance. He's at the Orphium Thursday night with Blanche Mehaffey and Mack Swain in "The Tired Business Man", a real laugh producer. Over at the Bijou they are reviving "The Covered Wagon" Thursday afternoon and night for a one-day stand. This reviewer still believes this to be easily one of the finest pictures ever made and everybody who has never seen the movie should crowd in on this last chance. J. Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson and Ernest Torrence are in the cast.

Jean Arthur, young movie actress, has landed the feminine lead of Richard Dix's first movietone picture. She got the job over such stars as Pola Negri, Evelyn Brent, Fay Wray and others.

he cast was making whoopee at rehearsal and out of that experience came the idea that if the new little theater movement here can inspire half as much enthusiasm as was exhibited by the perspiring Jamestown stage toilers, its success is assured.

Despite the closeness of the air in the venerable Jamestown Opera House, the performers worked their heads off with as much "pep" and enthusiasm as if a first-night audience was in the theater. The way they toiled before the empty chairs these folks take their playacting seriously.

Miss Leontine Jenks, who doubled with the violin and piano, and who has the ability and charm needed to go far in the entertaining profession and Bob Owens, Xenia, who needs no introduction to local people, directed the revue and scraped up a lot of talent for the production.

Gene Gordon is an entertainer of the Bill Horner type, hard-working, with an easy stage presence and a fairly good voice. Max Conklin has a voice well above the average and a professional air that helps put him across while

Woman Honest For Twenty Years, Faces Trial In Fraud Case.

Mrs. Lou C. Pennington in court.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 19—Police and alienists are puzzled and Kentucky merchants, also puzzled, are suffering a $200,000 loss in one of the strangest cases the state has ever seen.

Its cause is a woman, Mrs. Lou C. Pennington, of Louisville, who has been arraigned in police court to answer to a score of warrants charging the utterance of worthless checks.

That's not unusual—many women have issued worthless checks before. But Mrs. Pennington has led an honest business life for more than twenty years. She had acted as purchasing agent for hundreds of individuals throughout Kentucky, was trusted by all, and extended unlimited credit by many. All thought her a woman of keen business wits.

Then something happened to Mrs. Pennington. Something snapped. In the course of a few weeks she wandered about, her mind a blur, purchasing thousands of dollars worth of goods on credit.

To her clients throughout the state the matronly buyer is said to have given pre-dated checks, telling them that by cash payment she could obtain huge discounts which she would share with tem.

Then Mrs. Pennington disappeared from her Louisville apartment, taking her nine-year-old daughter with her. For three weeks she was sought by detectives who finally found her in a sanitorium for the mentally ill near Louisville, where she had been taken by her son, an Akron, Ohio, doctor. She had been wandering aimlessly through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, for more than a week.

To the detective who arrested her, Mrs. Pennington attempted to sell stock in an imaginary Mexican company which had taken form in her mind while at the sanitorium.

Regaining her composure later, police say that she told them she was in a "blur." She declared that she had secreted enough money, in several banks, to meet all obligations. But she could not reveal the location of her accounts.

Insanity is to be the plea when Mrs. Pennington faces trial, it has been indicated.

Why suffer with Rheumatism?

You know it cannot be rubbed away

ARE you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered with rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs .... then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best."—Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

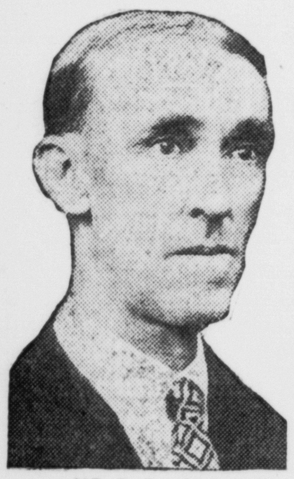

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

KONJOLA BRINGS GLORIOUS HEALTH SAYS XENIA MAN

This surprising medical compound, Konjola, which the Konjola Man is explaining in person to large crowds daily at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, has not only become the sensation of this city, but is also the talk of cities and towns throughout this section. For instance, just a few days ago, Mr. E. F. Jones, 221 Dayton Avenue, Xenia, made the following statement about Konjola while talking with the Konjola Man:

MR. E. F. JONES

"I had been suffering for many years," said Mr. Jones, "trying first one thing and then another before I ever knew there was a medicine like Konjola, and now since I got this new compound, I am feeling better than I have in years and my health miseries are gone.

"I did not know what it was to enjoy a meal like other people without suffering agonies as soon as I finished. Quantities of gas formed in my stomach and bloated me up so much that I could hardly get my breath. This caused my heart to palpitate and flutter so much that at times, I thought it would stop beating. It seemed to me that none of the medicines I took for relief, ever helped me the least bit. My general health began to fail rapidly so that I never did feel normally. My appetite was so poor that I never sat down to a meal and had the desire to eat. My kidneys were finally affected and I became so weak that I had to be getting up at all hours of the night. It was impossible for me to enjoy a complete night's sleep. The next morning I would be tired and wornout. I tried all kinds of remedies and different tonics but I might as well have taken water.

"Finally a friend told me about Konjola and how it had helped him and so I decided to try it. Now I want to say that I have never regretted it since that day. I noticed a wonderful change coming over my entire system with every dose of the medicine. I am now able to sit down to a big meal and eat anything I want without suffering the least bit of pain afterward. Everything I eat agrees with me and all the ugly symptoms have disappeared. My general health is better than it has been in the last year and I feel years younger. Konjola stopped the night rising right away and kidneys are now well and strong. I enjoy good, wholesome sleep until the next morning. I think that Konjola is a wonderful medicine and I readily gave it my endorsement knowing that it is all and more than it is claimed to be."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Years of Service in MODEL T FORDS

THE Model T Ford is still a great car. It led the motor industry for twenty years and it is used today by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service in city, town and country, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five more years and even longer at very small up-keep expense.

The cost of Model T parts and of necessary labor is unusually low because of established Ford policies.

The labor charge for tuning up the motor is only $1. This includes replacement of commutator case, brush and vibrator points if necessary. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon runs from $3 to $4. Overhauling carburetor, $1.50. Installing new pistons or connecting rods, $6. Tightening main bearings, $6. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have the motor and transmission completely overhauled.

The labor charge for replacing rear axle shaft, drive shaft pinion or drive gear is $5. All sockets and joints of front end can be tightened for $1.50.

The steering gear can be completely overhauled for a labor charge of $3.50. Muffler repaired for $1.

The labor charge for repainting the Coupe is $25. Sedan, $25. Touring Car, $20. Top deck of Coupe or Sedan can be replaced for a labor charge of $4.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of reconditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.
